*Chateau Rose

SOLID STERLING SILVER

The romantic beauty of yesteryear becomes the fashion of today. The revival of elegance in home decoration reaches back to the Regency and Louis XIV eras, with a touch of Victorian to add zest to the ensemble.

"Chateau Rose" is a happy blending of the traditional beauty of these time-favored motifs. As they have lived in the past . . . "Chateau Rose" will live in the future, to become one of your cherished heirlooms of tomorrow. Substantial in weight throughout.

Its beautiful highlights are softened to a silvery lustre by its smooth butler finish.

*French Scroll

SOLID STERLING SILVER

A flourishing prelude to the styles of tomorrow

The fantasy of scrolls from the LOUIS XV and LOUIS XVI periods . . . richly and delicately moulded into a series of sweeping graceful curves, unbroken, yet carved to reflect beautifully the scintillating high-lights created by its soft undulating surfaces . . . gives life to this lovely pattern.

Here, in ALVIN'S newest pattern in sterling . . . FRENCH SCROLL . . . is a style developed in keeping with the present day demand for modernized sterling patterns from the classical period that prevailed during the reign of the Kings LOUIS, in the years 1700 to 1800. Soft Butler Finish

"PRO" MOVIE TRICKS

To "frost" a window, swab with a mixture of stale beer and epsom salts. Or use hypo or spirits of camphor.

Icicles can be made by dipping a solution of silicate of soda, or by soaking strips of cellophane in alcohol and paraffin.

Mineral oil sprayed on faces looks like perspiration. In bigger drops it makes "tears."

Make "cobwebs" by pouring rubber cement between two blocks of wood—pull blocks in and out until it forms fine strands

GLOBE SPORTING GOODS LINE HANDLED BY HENRY KATZ

In the February issue of PLAYTHINGS a selection of some of the outstanding lines in the Henry Katz Office showed an illustration of a ball and glove that should have been credited to the Globe Sporting Goods Company.

To set the records straight we show here

one of the new numbers in the Globe line — a baseball glove display unit, four gloves to the display, packed three displays to a shipping carton. This special packing is available for all gloves in the line over $3.98.

The Globe line includes packaged sets of junior sized gloves with major league styling to retail from $.98 to $3.98. Genuine leather "Super-Grip" Baseball Gloves and Mitts start at $1.98 in all models. A complete line of sporting goods with football, basketball, boxing and hockey items is also manufactured by this firm. Globe Sporting Goods is represented in the toy trade by the Henry Katz Sales Organization at 200 Fifth Avenue, New York City. The complete line can be seen in the Henry Katz Showroom in Room 540.

INDIAN TRADERS' 1955 ITEMS TO BE INDIVIDUALLY BAGGED

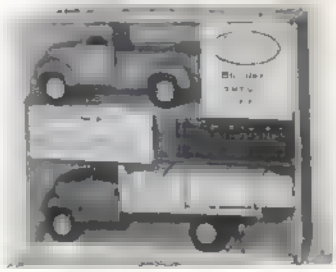
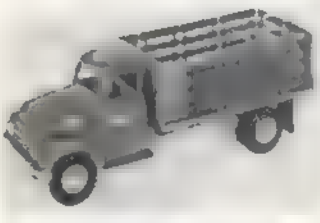
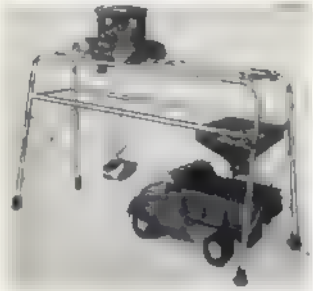
The line will consist of five popularly-priced (49¢-$2) tom-toms; "Make-It-Yourself Tom-Tom Kits," retailing at $1 and $2. Indian Play Outfits consisting of tom-toms and headdresses in an attractive window box to retail at $2 and $4; and Children's Indian-styled Beaded Belts, Beaded Dolls, Horn Dance Rattles and Feathered Headdresses.

The Indian Traders [illegible] represented by the following: Ward Francis Company on the west coast; Ben G [illegible] in the southwest; The Dennis Company, in the southeast; Walter & Arthur Krenzien in the midwest. A New York representative is to be announced.

Six Additions to Tonka Line to Be Shown at Toy Fair







Six additions to the Tonka Toy line of metal trucks and allied toys for 1955 include a new long wheelbase truck chassis and an aerial sand loader, hailed by the company as the finest toy of this type ever built within the price range.

All new models, with the company's improved present line, will be shown at the Toy Fair. The additions bring the total number of Tonka Toys to 22.

The aerial sand loader, a departure from the firm's traditional line of factual scale metal trucks and road building equipment, is patterned after the huge overhead loaders in use at the iron ore docks on Lake Superior. Made of heavy 20-gauge steel and aluminum tubing, the aerial loader consists of a cab mounted on four trolley wheels that traverse, by remote winding, the length of the aluminum rails. Slung under the cab is a weighted clamshell bucket which is opened and shut from a control on the cab and raised or lowered by a second. The bucket's action is so authentic that it will easily pick up a full load of sand, marbles or a flat coin from a tabletop. The cab is fire engine red. Rubber feet sheathe the legs. The toy is designed for use indoors with marbles or outdoors in sand.

Retailing at $12.95, the aerial loader is 10½" high, 9½" wide and 26½" long, individually packed, six to a shipper. It is also available packaged with the Tonka Toy scale model dump truck #180-4 as a load-and-dump set, #825-5, to retail at $15.95 as the Aerial Sand Loader Set.

Another new Tonka Toy 1955 model is the Lumber Truck, an authentic long-wheelbase reproduction of a yard lumber hauler, with a non-slip grid bed surface, [illegible] chain stakes, and, as a special "live" feature, rollers that can be turned by hand to unload the lumber.

The Stake Truck has six realistic and removable side stakes and a tailgate. The stake bed mounts on the same cab and chassis as the Lumber Truck and these two truck beds and cab, together with the new Tonka Toy Pickup Truck, comprise the Builders Supply Fleet package that features interchangeable bodies on the two long-wheelbase trucks. The Pickup Truck, with a drop tailgate and chain, is factually modeled after light duty trucks used by building trades contractors. All are made with 20-gauge steel, carefully formed to scale and have plated wheel discs, headlights, bumpers, and grills. The large rubber tires are deeply treaded. Retail prices are as follows: Lumber Truck, #[illegible]-5, $5.98; Stake Truck, #[illegible]-5, $4.98; Builders Supply Fleet, #0875-5, $10.95. 38" Tall Paper Dolls Made by John L. Morton Co.

Making the paper doll into a new and exciting toy that is life size and stands alone is the business of John L. Morton and Company of Portsmouth, Ohio.

These paper dolls are truly life-size, being 38" tall, and are of such construction that they will stand up alone. The features and hair styles, as shown in the accompanying photograph, are described as remarkably lifelike.

The paper clothing included with each doll is attractive and modern. The paper accessories include hats, bags, gloves, sun glasses and others. Designed for children aged 4 to 10, the dolls provide unlimited play value and contribute to a child's manual dexterity, good taste and social consciousness.

The dolls are packaged individually in a parcel post size and weight carton that converts as a suitcase in which the cut-out clothing may be kept. One dozen dolls in a master carton weigh 28 pounds.

Ding Dong School has recently licensed the dolls, and their debut on Miss Frances' show is expected soon.

Placed in numerous department stores and toy shops, the dolls are popular with the small fry who talk and play with them as with actual playmates. Additional, smartly-designed clothing packaged to sell separately at popular prices is being readied for distribution.

To make these entertaining playmates, John L. Morton teamed up with Catharine Russell, who is well known in the infants' and children's wear market as the Junior Tog Shop of Portsmouth, Ohio.

WOR's Scrabble Window

In line with Selchow & Righter's expanding advertising program, S & R's two best-selling games, Scrabble and Parcheesi, are currently being advertised on the John B. Gambling Show over radio station WOR, as well as in newspapers in key markets throughout the United States.

To promote the show, the station is featuring this display window in their building on Times Square in New York. Featured in the display, in addition to Scrabble and Parcheesi, are their fast-moving games of Assembly Line and Meet the Presidents. These two latter games are being advertised at present on the famous Dave Garroway television show "Today."

DeKALB MOVES ALL TO NEW PLANT IN DeKALB, ILLINOIS

DeKalb Toy & Novelty Company has moved their offices and assembly and finishing departments, which have been located at 136 S. Second Street, to their new plant erected adjacent to their mill at 11th and Oak Street, DeKalb, Ill.

Since starting business in 1944 they have had to move all or part of their plant three times to take care of increased production. They expect that they will be pretty well set at the new location for the next five years.

R. W. Fulton of the company states: "It will certainly be a pleasure for us to work from one location to say nothing of that pleasure to be derived from improved methods of operation. The new location means a complete consolidation of our woodmill, metal department, finishing and assembly.

"The new location means increased production facilitated by methods such as automatic shaping, conveyor finishing and conveyor silk screening. We have just finished with a new machine that will assemble and package a low cost rope swing at a rate of three per minute," he adds.

DeKalb Toy & Novelty produces a well-known line of counter package swings, Pony Rockers, pre-pedal-age carts, Craft Kits and Sand Boxes. New merchandising methods of selling individual swings will be presented at the Toy Fair. New items shown will be a "Twin Swing" with play table, a "Jr's Ship's Ladder" Swing, and several new boys' Craft Kits. They have also taken over the production and sale of "Jack's Pony," a well known number in the trade.

Plant management will be under the direction of R. T. Howard, R. W. Fulton, and his two sons, Robert and Richard Fulton. Richard, now three years in Japan with the Security Division of the U.S. Air Force, will finish his four-year enlistment in October. He advises he is anxious to get back to the toy business and is looking forward to operation in the new plant.

DeKalb Toy & Novelty is well represented in most all states as well as Canada and Hawaii. They extend an invitation to those who attend the Toy Fair to visit them at the New Yorker Hotel.

SALES REP. HARRY LODMER REPORTS ON EARLY BUYING

Harry Lodmer of Harmor & Company, Inc., stated recently that even though the Toy Fair was still a couple of weeks away, his organization had been literally "up to its eyes" in taking care of the wants of visiting buyers.

Among the prominent lines represented by this well-known factory agent are Park Plastics, Water Guns and other plastic action toys; Norton-Honer, Buck Rogers Guns and Field Glasses; Topic Toys, novelties; Philmore, Radio Crystal Sets; Eastern Moulded's line of vinyl and latex rubber toys; and the Highland Art line of Embroidery Kits.

"Harry" is looking forward to greeting his many buying friends at his 200 Fifth Avenue, New York City, showroom, Room 361, during and following the Toy Fair.

MORTON GOULD JOINS STAFF OF BROWN-EDDY ASSOCIATES

Brown-Eddy Associates, Inc., manufacturers' representatives for the south, reports it is continuing to grow rapidly. Latest proof is the announcement from Fred X. Brownstein, president, that Morton Gould has been added to the firm's staff in a sales capacity. A man who has been in the selling field since 1935, Mr. Gould has wide experience in such varied fields as housewares, hardware, and toys.

In addition to his long experience in selling, he will bring to his new position personal knowledge of key cities within the Brown-Eddy territory, for Mr. Gould at one time or another has lived in St. Louis, New Orleans, and Dallas. Now he will make his home in Memphis with his wife and year-old daughter.

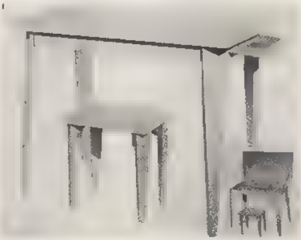
Mort Gould

At Brown-Eddy, Mr. Gould joins a successful sales force that covers 16 states, from Virginia to Florida, and from Kansas to Texas, with representatives strategically located in key cities. In Dallas, there is Jimmie Brooks; in St. Louis, Leo Fischer; in Atlanta, Walter Marx; and in Memphis, George Shillig and Fred Brownstein. In addition, Memphis boasts both the Brown-Eddy home office and permanent showrooms in the M & M Building. Other permanent showrooms for the firm are located in the Merchandising Mart Building in Dallas and also at Walter Marx's headquarters, 1250 Poplar Grove Drive, N. E., Atlanta.

"We are really delighted to add Morton Gould to our staff," Fred Brownstein said in making the announcement. "It does serve as a measure of our steady growth in the past few years, of course. But more than that, we feel that Mr. Gould will be a real addition to our sales force. He's the kind of man that has made us grow so fast—aggressive, experienced, and with a top reputation for sales and merchandising. And he feels the way the rest of us at Brown-Eddy do about the importance of consistent coverage and personal contacts with our principals and valued customers."

In turn, Mr. Gould paid high compliment to Brown-Eddy. "I feel this is a great opportunity for me, personally," he said. "I've been over the Brown-Eddy lines thoroughly, and I was sure pleased to learn that we have five of the top lines in the country—and every one of them has shown a steady increase, year by year, since being represented by Brown-Eddy."

Standard Cabinet Co. Announces Line of Juvenile Furniture



The company's #503 Play Desk, a $9.95 retailer.

The Standard Cabinet Company, Peru, Ind., manufacturer of household furniture, has announced its entry into the toy furniture field with the showing of their new line to their midwest salesmen.

The first four items to be put into production are now in stock and ready for delivery, according to Sam M. Harper, sales manager, who announced at the same time that the trade name "King Size" has been assigned to the line.

Mr. Harper said that toy furniture will be produced under the same conditions and to the same standards that have governed company production for the past 60 years. An extensive trade paper promotion is contemplated for the near future, it is added.

THREE-INCH STATUETTES OF BASEBALL PLAYERS

The All*Stars Statuette of Willie Mays (see cut) is one of the first series of 28 major leaguers to be produced by Robert Gould Inc., 200 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

Each statuette is approximately 3" in height and made from high impact polystyrene. They will be available to retail individually on a card at 15¢ each or 7 for $1. The latter assortment is packaged in a colorful acetate windowed box.

All*Stars Statuettes will be displayed in Rooms 513 and 538 in the Toy Center during the Toy Fair, according to the Gould announcement.

HARROW & GLUCKSMAN AUGMENT SAYCO DOLL'S SALES STAFF

Buyers who visit the Sayco Doll Corporation's spacious Toy Fair display in Rooms 950, 951, 952, 953, 954 and 955 at the New Yorker Hotel will find there Gene Roth, vice-president in charge of sales, ably assisted by two energetic young men.

Robert L. Harrow, a fast-moving six-footer, recently became a Sayco salesman and is looking forward to showing doll buyers the many Sayco innovations for 1955. Mr. Harrow brings to his new connection a valuable background of merchandising experience acquired as a toy buyer at Interstate Department Stores. Previous to his connection with Interstate, Mr. Harrow had been associated with the doll industry in a manufacturing capacity.

Another young Sayco salesman, Arnold Glucksman, will also be on the job at the Sayco display during the Fair. Before coming with Sayco three years ago, Mr. Glucksman had been associated with Schranz & Bieber Company and independent retailers.

"In these fast-moving days we think it is important for every concern to have on their selling staff wide-awake, enthusiastic, young men who talk the language of the present day generation. Youth and experience are of equal importance in today's merchandising and we are sure our new Sayco Doll men have just the right combination of both to be of constructive service to our many customers," says Mr. Roth.

Workmen press out hats, assembly-line fashion, at the new Arlington plant.

Arlington Hat's "Old Copper Kettle"

AN ANCIENT copper kettle, brightly burnished, stands proudly in the freshly decorated Arlington Hat Company, Inc., showroom these days, sharing attention honors with a brand new spring line of children's western and novelty hats.

Arlington, respected as a producer of quality-crafted popular-priced hats for youngsters, is featuring this spring the Howdy Doody Parade Hat, which will be worn by all the kids on the Howdy Doody top-rated television show from coast to coast. Of durable acetate plastic, the hat is brightly colored red and white and carries illustrations of Howdy himself and his pals. It will retail for under 50¢, the company announces.

The story behind the copper kettle is told by Max Rothman:

"To me that old kettle may be pure copper but it's worth its weight in gold. Twenty seven years ago I started right here in the hat business with only one assistant, Joe Davis, our present-day foreman. Or rather, I should say two assistants. The second one was that old copper kettle. We used to fill her up and set her to steam on a pot-belly coal stove. And that's how we made hats in the old days.

My partner, Nat Strongin, he's young and progressive. He's developing new ideas all the time. Why, much of our modern machinery was devised by him so that we could produce the custom quality line expected of us on an assembly line, price basis. That banged up kettle is an antique now—and retired from working, but it's the symbol of Arlington's success through the years."

Max Rothman and foreman Joe Davis

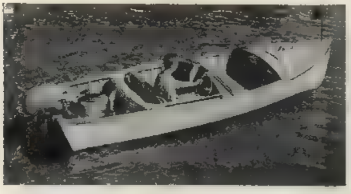
ADJUSTABLE STILT is being offered by Dream Stilt Co., 5927 Oakville Rd., Cleveland 24, Ohio. It has a clamping arrangement that allows any desired height adjustment to 24", with the added feature that the greater the weight, the greater the clamping power, without weakening the wood upright, according to the manufacturer.

Designed for safety, the stilt is of soft wood with rounded corners. Available in a variety of colors, the stilt will retail at $3.49



Left: 15-foot lapstrake outboard runabout, ideal for families and for fishermen, 30 m.p.h. with 25 h.p. Old Town Canoe Co., Old Town, Me., also builds an extensive line of other outboard models, skiffs, dinghies, sailboats and canoes

CALIFORNIA CATAMARAN

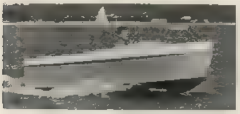
The CC-18 Catamaran Gay Cat built by California Catamaran, Inglewood, Calif., has several distinctive features which make it unusually flexible. The great beam of the boat makes possible a large self-bailing cockpit which will comfortably accommodate four to six. The high forward bulkhead with its rolled cowling effect affords protection from wind and spray.

The boat is a top performer under sail. She will sail close and fast to windward, and off the wind her light draft and truly planing bottoms make her virtually unbeatable.

One of the most important features of the Gay Cat is that she is perfectly adaptable for outboard motor use, capable of handling up to 25 h.p. The light weight of the boat, only 425 pounds, and the simplicity of the rig make her highly portable. Two people can easily handle her off and on the trailer, and step and unstep the rig.

DOANE SPEED SHIPS

With years of experience behind them, the Doane Marine Works, Stamford, Conn., have many new designs and kits ready for numerous runabouts and cruisers. Doane has been using plywood in its small boat program for many years and can be said to be experts in its use. Runabout designs from 14 to 24 feet, and small cruisers for both inboard and outboard power are included in the kits and plans offered. A new form of plywood construction is now available in which the seams are Armorglas reinforced. It tends to reduce the number of parts required in assembling a boat. Watertight bulkheads are fitted into all models and full six feet headroom has been provided in the 21 and 23-foot cruiser designs. All models are designed for rough water cruising.



Doane's Sea Ship Model 14 utility does over 30 m.p.h. with a 16 h.p. outboard. Also supplied as a cruiser

Above: California Catamaran's CC 18 Gay Cat carries 185 square feet of sail. She is built of Super-Harbord Plywood

Right: The Pabst Holiday 14-foot runabout, built by United States Outboard Inc., has a new non-trip bow designed for dry riding

TOPPER OUTBOARD CRUISERS

The 1955 Topper Outboard Cruisers and Cruisettes will again feature the popular deep-V hull and their exclusive skeg and stringer construction for added strength and maneuverability. Both of these Chesapeake Bay-built boats are equipped this year with the flying bridge windshield for extra helmsman protection. Topper, pioneers in outboard cruiser design, introduces a new degree of quiet, due to the method of sound-proofing the insulated, water-tight engine compartment with rugged, non-inflammable, nonabsorbent material.

Additional headroom in both the Topper Cruiser and Cruisette, coupled with sparkling new mahogany foredeck and interior trim, make these the most luxurious ever built

As an addition to their accessories, Topper has developed a davit to aid the boat owner in lifting his engine from transom to cockpit or from pier to transom. Full color literature on both the Outboard Cruiser and the Outboard Cruisette is available on request from Topper Boat Company, 5816 Ritchie Highway, Baltimore 25, Maryland.

UNITED STATES OUTBOARD

With the addition of three new cruisers to their line of outboard runabouts, United States Outboard, Inc., of Rockford, Illinois, round out their line of outboard boats. These cruisers are 16, 18, and 21 feet in length, fitted with two bunks and have space for galleys and toilets. They are built with mahogany plywood and trimmed with white ash. The cabin tops on the two larger boats are of molded fiberglass. They will perform well with outboard engines from 12 to 50 h.p.

At the Pabst Division of the United States Outboard Company, production facilities have been enlarged so that the Pabst Holliday runabout can be turned out in greater quantity. The Holliday model features non-distorting bulkhead framing, and a new non-trip bow design for dry riding. Five-ply ⅝-inch mahogany paneled bottoms have been added.

Production has also been increased on the complete line of kits designed for ease of construction by the amateur.

AERO-CRAFT

Aero-Craft Boats, St. Charles, Mich., offer a line of aluminum boats in 1955 with the addition of three new models and styling changes on some of the present models.

New models include a 9-foot dinghy, an 18-foot convertible cruiser and a 21-foot cruiser, all of 24 ST-6 aircraft aluminum.

Remodeling changes in the present line will result in all models having a speed-curve stem and a greatly increased beam. Some models have been given extra depth. New spray-rails that give better deflection of water have been installed on all models. Heavier keels and gunwales will also be in evidence, thereby giving greater strength.

All these changes have been made possible because of more efficient production methods and the procurement of new machinery. The net result has been a general price reduction.

High Finish Now A Feature of Hedstrom's Furniture Nos.

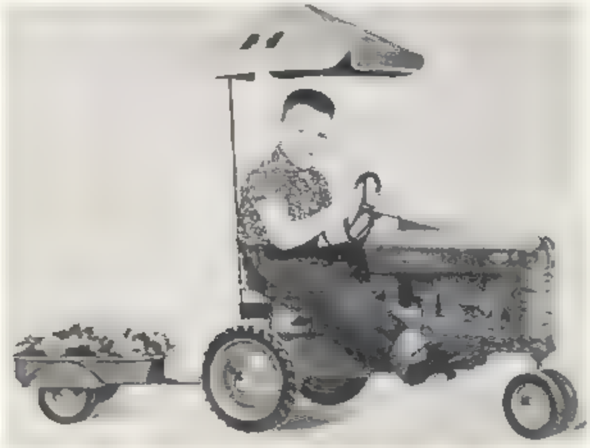
The new grained finish so popular in Hedstrom high-chairs now appears at the Toy Fair on a smart array of desks, toy chests, tables and chairs, book racks, vanities and other items by Hedstrom.

Blendwood is a smartly grained finish on an oyster base—clean, rich and good looking, contrasting with a dull finish black base and the yellow capped legs to protect floors.

These matched pieces for girl or boy suggest repeat sales for dealers over a long period of time, the manufacturer contends. "Everything in juvenile furniture looks better, is smarter in Blendwood and is low priced, too," the company adds, in its announcement.

Oak Hill Company features this line shipping from Fitchburg, Mass.; Hedstrom ships from Dothan, Ala.

New Farmall Tractorcycle Placed on Market by Eska



Luke Sapan, sales manager of the Eska Company, Inc., Dubuque, Iowa, says that the initial reaction they have been receiving on their newly-introduced #400 International Harvester Farmall Tractor indicates that it will become one of the most successful items the firm has ever produced. Says Mr. Sapan, "Our new 1955 Farmall Tractorcycle was designed for youngsters from three to eight years. It is all new in that it encompasses all the major improvements that International Harvester has made for 1955. Nothing that will make for all-out realism has been overlooked—it even makes an exhaust sound, just like the big tractors."

Mr. Sapan calls particular attention to the sun umbrella with which each Farmall tractor is equipped, pointing out that this new feature is authentic in every detail. The attachable trailer is another sales-making accessory that never fails to please and fascinate every youngster.

Mr. Sapan in commenting on Eska's enlarged 1955 line said, "This year we are also releasing for the toy field, the Massey-Harris, Oliver, Allis-Chalmers and Case model tractors, trailers and umbrellas. From the standpoint of variety and quality, we feel that we are making available to toy buyers a distinctive line of wheel-goods."

The complete Eska line will be shown during the Toy Fair and throughout the year at the display room of Jack Barnett in the Toy Center, 200 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

FIRST NEW "SNOOPY SNIFFER" GETS NEW YORK STATE DOG TAG

Something new in dog tag applications recently appeared in East Aurora, N. Y., location of the Fisher-Price Toys' factory. As a result, one of the most well known pull toys in the world, "Snoopy Sniffer," now has an official New York State dog tag, #278471, just issued by the Town of Aurora clerk's office.

The thought of getting a real tag for a toy dog occurred to Fisher-Price when the annual [illegible] dog census took place. An amusing incident happened in the Town Clerk's office when the application was made. The Town Supervisor, a veterinarian by profession, happened to be in the clerk's office and overheard the clerk ask the dog's age and the reply "17." "Mighty old for a dog, very unusual," the Supervisor commented, as he strolled out of the office.

Snoopy's age is unusual in the toy world, too. First introduced in 1937, Snoopy has remained unchanged all these years until this Toy Fair, when new proportions and more colorful lithographs were introduced. In the photo Fisher-Price Toys' "Mary Lou" is shown holding the first of the new Snoopy Sniffers to come off the assembly line, complete with his official dog tag.

"Snoopy" made his first claim to fame in 1937 when he was paraded up and down the boardwalk in Atlantic City by a bevy of bathing beauties. Store after store across the country picked up the promotion and Snoopy was the first pull toy to capture the nation's fancy. Since that time his ludicrous splay-footed gait and "woof-woof-woof" sound have fascinated many millions of children. Today, mothers who had Snoopy when they were children, are buying the popular pup for their young ones.

The new "Snoopy Sniffer," #780, is now priced to retail at $2 and is illustrated in Fisher-Price's new Toy Fair catalog now available from the manufacturer.

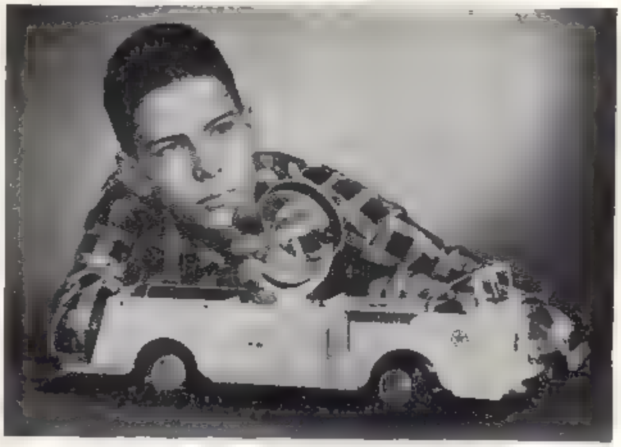
New Searchlight Truck Model Brought Out by C. W. Doepke



Companion Piece to Two Other Fire-Truck Numbers

A new searchlight truck modeled after those found in station houses across the country is in production at the Charles William Doepke Mfg. Company, of Rossmoyne, Ohio.

Built as a companion to other scale-model fire engines made by the company, the new light-throwing truck joins the aerial ladder engine and water pumper to create a trio of sturdy, manually-operated steel toys.

Like its companions, the new searchlight truck is scaled in the likeness of America-LaFrance equipment. As much detail as possible has been reproduced in the truck to retain the authentic touch desired by smallfry firechiefs.

The searchlight unit is mounted in the center. Operated by two flashlight batteries that supply power to the light, the self-contained section resembles the power generator of the real truck. Simulated controls are located on each side. The entire section is removable to replace the batteries.

Mounted on top of the generator is the big searchlight. On a yoke support, the light rotates 360 degrees as well as up and down to direct the beam. So accurate is the detail that cross hatch lines on the glass lens for focusing the beam have been copied from the real light. The parabolic reflector is made of spun aluminum, while a vertically mounted flashlight bulb supplies the light. An on-and-off switch is located atop the generator.

Finished in white baked enamel, the new toy has steerable front wheels and riding space in the rear for toy firemen. Retail price is $13.95.

Several new policies and price changes for 1955 have also been announced by the Doepke Company.

A new monthly publication, The Doepke Toy Merchandiser, will be published beginning in the spring. It will be designed to give dealers many pointers to help them sell Model Toys.

Also, it is reported, a new freight allowance ranging from 1 per cent to 3 per cent, depending upon the distance from Rossmoyne, Ohio, will be put into effect. Those dealers furthest from the factory will receive the highest allowance. Details are now being worked out at the factory and will be announced through the firm's representatives.

The 1954 MT Sports Car Kit has been reduced in retail price from $10.95 to $9.95. No changes have been made in the kit but the display carton has been redesigned to use less space on the dealers' shelves.

The Clarktor airport tractor and trailers has been slightly modified for 1955 and the price reduced from $9.95 to $6.95. The famous Heiliner earth scraper and mover has been reduced from $15.95 to $14.95. No other price changes are contemplated, it is added.

HARROW & GLUCKSMAN AUGMENT SAYCO DOLL'S SALES STAFF

Buyers who visit the Sayco Doll Corporation's spacious Toy Fair display in Rooms 950, 951, 952, 953, 954 and 955 at the New Yorker Hotel will find there Gene Roth, vice-president in charge of sales, ably assisted by two energetic young men.

Robert L. Harrow, a fast-moving six-footer, recently became a Sayco salesman and is looking forward to showing doll [illegible] the many Sayco innovations [illegible] 1955. Mr. Harrow brings to his new connection a valuable background of [illegible] experience acquired as a toy buyer at Interstate Department Stores. Previous to his connection with Interstate, Mr. Harrow had been associated with the doll industry in a manufacturing capacity.

Another young Sayco salesman, Arnold Glucksman, will also be on the job at the Sayco display during the Fair. Before coming with Sayco three years ago, Mr. Glucksman had been associated with Schranz & Bieber Company and independent retailers.

"In these fast-moving days we think it is important for every concern to have on their selling staff wide-awake, enthusiastic, young men who talk the language of the present-day generation. Youth and experience are of equal importance in today's merchandising and we are sure our new Sayco Doll men have just the right combination of both to be of constructive service to our many customers," says Mr. Roth.

Ideal Toy to Prune List of Wholesalers

The Ideal Toy Corporation has announced it is going into a program of resale price maintenance at the wholesale level and will cut its list of wholesale distributors "up to 80 per cent in some cities" in order to "maintain the prestige of its line." Last year Ideal's merchandise accounted for over $38,000,000 in retail sales or well over 4 per cent of the American toy industry volume, it is estimated.

According to David Rosenstein, president, the move has been under study for three years.

"It will involve thousands of wholesale distributors throughout the country and will take several months," Mr. Rosenstein stated, "but it's a job we feel must be done regardless of the many personal feelings involved. We believe that this program will be a pacesetter for all other national manufacturers in the toy industry."

Until this year, the extensive Ideal toy line of over 1,100 different dolls, plastic toys, summer inflatable equipment and stuffed animals has been available to all wholesale and retail distributors. The company reports that it has approximately 2,200 wholesalers on its books.

The new policy will establish selected distributors in many major cities. In certain areas, up to 80 per cent of the present wholesalers may be eliminated immediately.

B. F. Michtom

In other cities, a slower "weeding-out" process will be undertaken, according to Mr. Rosenstein.

The new program was formulated by B. F. Michtom, chairman of the board.

"The distributors selected," stated Mr. Michtom, "will be wholesalers who are able to deliver the entire potential of their city. As a result, we do not expect Ideal sales to decrease in 1955, although this new program may take a year or two to solidify. This is our own calculated risk.

"We intend to stop wholesalers who have been offering retailers special discriminatory discounts on Ideal toys as a wedge for getting orders on other merchandise.

"As wholesalers compete to undersell the Ideal line, we have been put under constant pressure to increase our discounts, which would have resulted eventually in a decrease in the quality of Ideal merchandise. Our new distributor program will eliminate that possibility. We think too highly of the consumer's faith in the Ideal brand name to let our line be less than the best.

"In addition, Ideal's new program should pay off in lower prices to the consumer," stated Mr. Michtom. "We will now be able to pre-test merchandise early in the season. This will increase our marketing and production efficiency and savings will be passed on to the public.

"Our new method of distribution will be supplemented by the biggest advertising campaign in our history," he continued. "Ideal is doubling its 1954 budget in newspaper and magazine advertising and will enter television this year on a much larger scale. Our campaign will stress the Ideal brand name as a consumer guarantee of quality, durability and play value. With selected distributors, we will also be able to provide local advertising and promotional support throughout the country."

One is a doll-walking and doll-dancing device which can be inserted into any body or leg of either hard or vinyl plastic by making necessary adjustments in tooling. Not automatic or fixed, the walking dancing motions are controlled by the little mother

The other device enables doll head movement by which any doll can be made to literally shake her head "No" and nod "yes." Like the walking and dancing device, this is also controlled by the child

New Items, Old Favorites from Kenner

Four entirely new toy items and two new infants' numbers, all set for June or early July delivery, have been added to the Kenner Products Company line for 1955 These six are in addition to a revamped model of the company's highly popular Fountain Brush Painting Set

Delivery on the last named, according to Joseph L. Steiner, president of the company, began the end of last month "This item," states Mr. Steiner, "has been a tremendous seller for us over the past two years and promises to be even bigger and better this year. It's been picked as a Prestige Toy by the Toy Guidance Council, Inc., and is going to be seen in many wholesaler and department store catalog.

'The Fountain Brush has proven itself to be a most popular way to paint with water color because there's no mess and no mixing of paints. In our new $1 set are six brushes plus a set of animal stencils and six new pictures. More value has also been added to the $2 number. Both sets have been packaged in sturdier, larger boxes than heretofore, and both will be widely promoted everywhere in the country'

The four new Kenner toy items are described as follows

First is the #344 "Rocket-Sock-it" gun and target game, a $3 retailer that features a five-barrelled gun which shoots five, safety cupped styrene rocket darts all at once or any one, two, three, four at a time. The self-scoring target (actually the bottom of the box itself) registers automatically, crediting the player according to his skill in dropping the plane

Second item is the #255 "Zilly Zoo," a $2 box item that contains seven high-impact plastic animals with come-apart and put-together-again heads, legs, bodies and tails. Such "Zilly" combinations as an elephant's body and a giraffe's head can be formed. Or, for the educational value, the youngster can be encouraged to assemble the animals correctly.

Third item toy is the #177 "Blow A-Plane," a 98c box number that includes five different jet-type plastic planes with two blow tube launchers. Each plane does a different flying stunt (loop-the-loop, spiral roll, circle, climb, glide, etc.) whether it's emitted via the tube or thrown by hand.

Fourth is the "Put-and-Stay" Creative Picture Kits, $1 and $2 retailers stock-numbered #166 and #266 respectively. Contents include hundreds of gaily imprinted pieces with which children can form circus scenes, abstract designs, words, buildings, cars, people and so forth on the playboard. The latter has a "furry" surface to which the pieces, which have "furry" backing, readily adhere

Kenner's past success with Nursery Birds and Nursery Butterflies, mobiles, have prompted the company to bring out a $3 98 companion item, the Fairy-Go Round. The latter, #400, combines color, motion and music. When wound for 30 seconds it plays for 15 minutes while, at the same time, five fairy figures revolve and cause the fairy queen's wands to strike five different chimes. The figures are made of sponge rubber covered with vinyl, thus making them washable

Also designed for the infants' market are Kenner's Nursery Plaques, wall decorations retailing at $1 98 All are made of lightweight plastic, in full dimension and color, and have been given a velvety surface. Titles of the five plaques are The Cow Jumped Over the Moon, Humpty Dumpty, Circus Scene, Now I Lay Me Down to Sleep and Little Bo-Peep.

Lindberg Models—"Truly Authentic"

By PATRICK GALVIN

AUTHENTICITY and packaging are the two major keys to rising sales and public acceptance of the Lindberg line of model aircraft and boats, in the opinion of Paul Lindberg, president of Lindberg Products, Inc., Skokie, Ill.

"But neither one is easy," says Mr. Lindberg. "They have to be planned for and worked at diligently, and there has to be a lot of knowledge backing them up. That's how the Lindberg line attained leadership, and that's how it will keep it."

Authenticity of the models starts with Mr. Lindberg himself, whose long background enables him to spot the misplacement of a rivet mark at a glance. Before starting the company in 1933 he was plant manager, supervisor and designer for Red Wing kits. After that for several years he was model editor and designer for Popular Aviation magazine. He is a private pilot himself, as is his plant supervisor, Gordon Christoph. Mr. Christoph is a former model manufacturer and a perennial mode laircraft contest winner.

It doesn't stop there. Mr. Lindberg has four staff engineers, all of them former model contest winners. And most of his mold makers are former contest winners.

"All this helps make our models truly authentic," Mr. Lindberg says. "And we think it is one of the most important contributions to authenticity. I don't think you can take just anybody, put them to work and expect them to really have the feel of model craft unless they have striven themselves to win contests. They get the feel of putting those curves in the right places, and there's no other way to get that feel.

"Because above all, we feel our models must be precise, and everything on them must be precisely to scale."

This has enabled Lindberg Products to come up with a lot of innovations. They pioneered in adding full-detail landing gear, bombs, rockets and flaps, in coming out with a detailed pilot, cockpit and seat, in providing minute riveting for more authenticity.

PRODUCTS

"We couldn't do that without the kind of personnel we have," states Mr. Lindberg. "Many of these things originated with them, things they knew how to do and felt they could do well. From a management level we stick right with them. And we work closely with aircraft plants, get photos of everything as soon as they are released."

The other key, packaging, is largely a matter of finding a top-notch artist and being willing to pay the price for art work and for the finished full-color boxes. "We were fortunate in getting the services of Ray Gaedke, who is an old friend of mine," says Mr. Lindberg. "He does a beautiful job of drawing for our packages and we back him up with good printing. We could get the packaging job done for half the price, but when we talk to our dealers we realize a good package is worth almost any price."

Sales manager W. S. Leslie claims "these packages are a major factor in our salesmanship. Retailers tell us the package sells the product without any pushing from the sales clerks. After the first sale to a customer, authenticity keeps them moving."

Engineering, mold making and administration plus pilot production is done at the headquarters plant at Skokie. Another plant at Burlington, Wis., handles most of the production. Mr. Lindberg's goal is to be in a new plant with offices that will combine all operations in 50,000 square feet of floor space near Chicago by the end of '55.

Lindberg representatives include Harley Cook, San Francisco; Stanton Dennis, Atlanta; B. G. Coplon, New York; and C. W. Snyder, Huron, Ohio.

Mothers, it is stated, have been quick to accept the unusual advantages of Parker Brothers' Art Tube Finger Paints. They like the fact that the paints are squeezed directly on the paper from the tubes, and are reassured by the statement that Art Tube Finger Paints contain no phenol They are termed appreciative, too, of the fact that these paints are easily removed from hands and clothing with water

The #130 set of Art Tube Finger Paints—including tubes of five different colors, a generous supply of special painting paper, spreaders and directions—retails for $1.50. The #131 set, with 10 tubes of all different colors, sells for $3.

Boys and girls throughout the USA will be asked to "Name Howdy Doody's Easter Bunny" via one of Howdy's sponsors, Franco-American spaghetti (a division of the Campbell Soup Company) The thousands of prizes lined up is expected to result in another mail-pull of landslide proportions, judging from previous Howdy promotions. The prizes include

1. 200 Huffy convertible bicycles by the Huffman Mfg. Company of Dayton, Ohio.
2. 100 Howdy Gym Sets by the Gendron Wheel Company of Perrysburg, Ohio
3. 100 Zippy the Chimp and 100 Windy the Dog dolls by the Rushton Company of Atlanta, Georgia

In addition, approximately 100,000 grocers will feature the contest prizes on case cards, window banners and shelf talkers. Sales representatives of the toy companies involved are preparing themselves for the demand for their items as a result of this [illegible]

Meanwhile, the Howdy Doody TV program continues to acquire new audiences, new laurels and new friends everywhere. Toy Fair time marks Howdy's eighth year on television, with over 1,800 performances to its credit reportedly a larger total than any other network TV program. Along with their long-run record, the Doodyville citizens can proudly proclaim they are the number one children's TV show according to all TV surveys, states Kagran Corporation, licensors for Howdy Doody

The year 1954 was the most successful in the merchandising operation of this fabulous puppet, it is disclosed. Many attractive new items were added to the Howdy Doody roster, and a new 28-page Merchandise Catalogue is being issued to buyers and jobbers.

Howdy Doody continues to make news on many other fronts as well:

Bob Smith, whose warmth and versatility have been vital ingredients in the show's magnetism and enduring success, is back on the air following his recent illness

The Peanut Gallery, the tiers of seats in Doodyville where 60 young visitors watch the program each day, still remains phenomenally popular, according to Kagran. Thousands of requests are received each week for the precious pasteboards, with some parents writing for tickets years in advance. Some have even sent birth announcements to NBC asking to be put on the waiting list; currently they have to wait over 30 months

Nineteen cities from coast to coast are now feeling the full impact of a merchandising program aimed at making the consumer aware of Howdy Doody fresh fruits and vegetables; and it has reportedly already gained the acclaim of parents through its effect on the eating habits of children.

A completely new version of Howdy Doody is now being seen on 14 television stations of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. Seven sponsors have already been signed in the space of a few short weeks, with several companies negotiating for the remaining three segments.

A "Doody Dime Day" a March of Dimes TV appeal to American children on the Howdy Doody show, resulted in a deluge of dimes with thousands of dollars collected and turned over to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis in their fight against Polio.

Thirty-one new stations have been added to the Howdy Doody line-up making for a total of 121 NBC-TV outlets throughout the country.

The Kagran Corporation, aware of the tremendous influence upon the 15 million youngsters who view the program daily (and the responsibilities to those viewers) state they are licensing only top quality merchandise, attractively designed and packaged and competitively priced.

THE HAWK MODEL COMPANY APPOINTS EYERLY ASSOCIATES

The Hawk Model Company, Chicago, manufacturers of scale model planes, have announced a change in their distribution policy

Eyerly Associates of Chicago and New York City have been appointed as sales agents for all states from the Colorado line to Maine, and southward through Kansas, Missouri, Kentucky and the Virginias

Throughout the hobby industry Hawk scale model plastic plane kits are known for their quality and authentic detail. Their first model was a Curtiss Racer, #600, introduced in 1945. Thus Hawk became pioneer makers of plastic scale model planes, a commodity that has since sold in countless millions all over the globe

But in 1945 the hobby trade did not look with favor on plastic planes—they believed balsa wood construction was the only type acceptable to consumers. Sales were small in volume and few in numbers with consignment a necessary part of every transaction

After a discouraging six months Hawk decided to try again, with their second plane a Gee Bee XI. Customer interest was still disappointing, but showing signs of improvement. By the end of their first year in business they knew Hawk scale model plane kits were here to stay.

Today, 10 years later, approximately 25 scale model planes comprise the Hawk line, with their Curtiss Racer still reported enjoying a much greater annual volume than during its introductory year

Richard Mates, president of Hawk Model Company, announced that in placing sales responsibilities with Eyerly Associates, the Hawk line would automatically be made available to traditional toy outlets. Mr. Mates further stated that a recent survey clearly indicates this broadening of their distribution will assure greatly increased volume

Packages are being revised for greater eye-appeal, and exciting new kits will, it is said, be introduced at their Toy Fair exhibit in the Grand Ballroom of the Hotel New Yorker. Incidentally, this will be the first showing by the Hawk Model Company at any Toy Fair.

Permanent displays will be maintained at 1107 Broadway, New York City, and in the Merchandise Mart, Chicago. William Rummel, Sr., and son, Bill, will be in charge of all eastern sales

BRONCO-MODELCRAFT, INC. GEARING UP FOR TOY FAIR

Bronco Modelcraft, Inc., 55 West 17 Street, New York City, announces they are readying their showroom for the Toy Fair rush. "We expect," the company states in their announcement, "that many buyers are going to be on the lookout this year for craft kits—the public is daily becoming more 'hobby and model' conscious.'

Special attention will be given, the manufacturer promises, to those dealers who wish to enlarge their hobby department and also to those who want to get started in a modest way to cash in on the increasing interest in model building and hobbycraft.

Salesmen for Glolite and jobber, at far right, look over a modification of Twinkl-Glo Lights, a top seller last year.

From Ideas to Items at Glolite

THE ILLUSTRATIONS on this page are descriptive, in part, of the way in which the Glolite Corporation Chicago, approaches the business of supplying the trade and the public with an ever-increasing array of attractive sales-appealing Christmas tree lights and decorations The company now produces more than 75 distinct items many of which are the decorative type that change from year to year.

Though the latter items admittedly have a peak selling season, management and production functions and responsibilities are carried out the year around at Glolite And because the company recognizes that in a highly competitive industry survival hinges on ingenuity and the ability to anticipate and meet the demands of the market, Glolite is constantly on the look-out for new ideas that can be translated into new, highly saleable items

The step-by-step procedure from idea to finished item is necessarily flexible but more or less follows these lines:

First an idea is presented, either by someone within the Glolite organization, or by an outsider. Then management considers the idea's virtues and/or shortcomings; if the verdict is positive, the idea is taken over then by designers, the product engineers, who make up "blueprint" after "blueprint" until they come up with just what's desired

Now, engineering and fabrication take over For the purpose, Glolite's main plant in St. Joseph, Mo., is among the nation's finest manufacturing operations. Whether it be production line goods or a special one-time performance, the facilities are geared to turn out the merchandise

Tops on the agenda at the plant is the fabrication of pilot models of the item. These are used for sampling and the results are then tabulated. Management, if it decides to go ahead, takes another careful look at the item and perhaps adds or subtracts a design feature

Once the new item goes into production all the promotional resources of the Glolite organization and their advertising agency are put to work. Ads begin running in the leading national magazines and a program of jobber and dealer promotional activities is put into motion

A case in point is Glolite's Twinkl-Glo tree lights, which successfully passed through the incubation stage described above and then were heavily and dramatically promoted from one end of the country to the other Thus, by Christmas last year, Glolite had sold every Twinky-Glo light it had produced.

For Christmas, 1955, the company promises more new "hot-sell" items—items conceived and turned with the same painstaking care as was the Twinkl-Glo assortments

Arthur Weyh, Coast-to-Coast buyer, inspects new numbers.

SECOND BOOK AUTHORED BY DALE EVANS ROGERS

"My Spiritual Diary" follows by almost exactly two years the publication of Mrs. Rogers' first book, "Angel Unaware" (March 16, 1953), the story of the Rogers' daughter, Robin Elizabeth, who died in 1952. "Angel Unaware" has sold more than 400,000 copies, with all author's royalties going to the National Association for Retarded Children.

Mrs. Rogers is assigning the royalties from "My Spiritual Diary" to a new clinic for retarded children at Children's Hospital in Los Angeles, the first such clinic in the nation.

Mrs. Rogers' literary success adds still another facet to the already remarkably varied joint career of herself and her husband. Top-rated Western stars in TV, radio, movies, rodeo and personal appearance tours, they are also outstanding in the field of personality brand merchandise. Total retail sales approached $35,000,000 last year on the 360 items produced in their names by 47 manufacturers.

All seven of last year's numbers, "which proved to be excellent sellers in 1954," will be retained and offered again this year. By virtue of manufacturing economies, the prices of some of these established items will be reduced for this year's buyers, it is announced.

The first of the new items is the #2000 Speed Swing, a scale model authorized by the manufacturers of the prototype, Pettibone Mulligan Company. The toy has a broad, heavy base which runs on four big 3¾" rubber tires and supports the motor housing, seat, and swivel pedestal for the bucket arm. This pedestal contains an ingenious jack mechanism by which the bucket is raised and lowered. A catch on the realistic toggle cylinder releases the bucket for dumping. The whole pedestal can be swiveled to any position and has a latch to hold it in the forward position only. With all this motion, the toy presents versatile entertainment for youngsters from 3 to 12 years of age. It is ruggedly built of 20-gauge or heavier sheet steel, with welded assembly for long life. Finish is sprayed baked-enamel in brilliant orange color with chrome trim. The retail price is $7.95; for the 11 western states $8.35.

The second new item is the #2200 Michigan Shovel, authorized by the Clark Equipment Company. This also is an extremely versatile toy and has a particularly clever bucket mechanism which provides realistic pick-up and dump action. A very broad base, supported on six rubber-tired wheels, is heavy enough so the shovel will really work at the full boom extension. To add to the solidity, two adjustable screw jacks on extension arms slide out from a channel in the platform. The winch house swivels freely to any position and contains two hand cranked winches, one for the boom and one for the bucket. Easy-working release pawls control position as required. When the bucket is dropped into a pile of sand or other material, a smooth-working catch engages the center pivot so that the clamshell closes on the load automatically when it is raised, in exactly the same manner as on a big shovel. When the bucket is raised to the boom a release is actuated and the bucket opens to drop the load The entire action is controllable from the cab, so the young operator can copy the motions of a big machine. Like all other Ny-Lint Scale Model Toys, the Michigan Shovel is of rugged, welded steel construction, 20-gauge or heavier, finished in sprayed baked-enamel. Platform and cabs are bright yellow, the boom a brilliant blue. The retail price is $9.95, for the 11 western states $10.45

The Ny-Lint showings at the Toy Fair will be in Rooms 616 and 608 at the Hotel New Yorker, and in Room 450 at the 200 Fifth Avenue Building

Representatives on hand will include Rags Klint, Barney Klint, Bill O'Brien, Ted Sexton, Jim Melton, Ralph Heatherington, Leo Scherrer, J. Warren Wiley, Leslie Allen, Harold Hanna, and Allen Dillon. New literature and other sales aids for 1955 will also be available to buyers at these showings.

MILT GREY ANNOUNCES RESIGNATION FROM REVELL

Completely to the surprise of the toy and hobby industry, was the recent announcement by M. K. "Milt" Grey, of his resignation as vice-president and a member of the board of Revell, Inc.

During his years as director of merchandising, Revell has risen to be one of the nation's largest manufacturers of plastic model kits, with world wide distribution and recognition. Mr. Grey, a strong believer in heavy emphasis at the point of purchase, created many novel innovations in merchandising.

His emphasis on "self-selling" was responsible for the revolving "Carousell" unit, now in profitable use in over 20,000 stores; the "Bull's-Eye" Floor Merchandiser, a compact "hobby department" in less than 8 square feet of space; the soon-to-be announced "Serve-n-Sell" Merchandiser for plane kits, and many others. His annual "Hobby Day on Father's Day" was the first major attempt to develop off-season selling in the hobby industry, it is claimed.

Interviewed at his office, 324 South Rodeo Drive, Beverly Hills, Cal., Mr. Grey emphasized that his parting from Revell was on the friendliest basis. "I merely took a step I have been contemplating for a long time: to offer guidance and counsel on marketing and merchandising to a few manufacturers who have faith in the future of the industry and want to make their plans accordingly. Once I came to that decision, I took the advice I frequently advocated . . . full speed ahead."

Milt Gray

Regarding his future plans, he stated that in the few days since the announcement of his resignation many intriguing projects have been brought to his attention, but that no definite announcement will be made until early April.

WINTRISS INTRODUCES NEW MASTER VOICE ASSEMBLY

Reported making a 'big noise' in the toy field is the new, improved Master Voice Assembly developed by Wintriss Inc., for installation in dolls and toys. This new type of voice assembly eliminates side holes in the neck block or the need for locating the hole in the skin of dolls. Factory pre-assembled, the assembly uses only single block insertion by means of a hoppered press, which is good for latex, vinyl, and rubber bodies as well as all types of squeeze toys. The special hoppered press, which incorporates an automatic feeding device, inserts the voice assembly into the toy or doll, is available to manufacturers, according to Wintriss.

For doll manufacturers using vinyl, another Wintriss specially engineered automatic machine punches the air hole and inserts and fastens the voice assembly in the body in the doll factory.

"There is no voice handling or damage, and no buckram screening is necessary, yet the installation is safe and permanent for baby's use," Bernard Wells, sales manager stated. Wintriss, Inc., is now located at 20 Vandam Street, New York City 13, and stocks one of the largest assortments available of ready-made "Master" Voices for toy and novelty manufactuers. A voice may be developed by the Wintriss sound engineers free of charge for any manufacturer desiring one to solve a special voice problem; and with this new type of assembly, less expensive, and faster installation results in greater production of the toy, it is claimed.

PARENTS, PLEASE NOTE

Here are some pointers from the Bicycle Institute of America, trade association of the industry, for parents in helping their youngsters to ride the new 1955 American bikes properly. The ball of the foot—not the instep, or heel—should be on the pedal. Knees should be kept close to the frame when pedaling. Knee joints should operate like a hinge. When they bend normally, they function more efficiently and make riding easier.

It is distinctive in its styling with House and Garden colors being used for the table tops and seat paddings and upholstery, the manufacturer informs.

"A line designed with the jobber in mind" is being presented at the 1955 Toy Fair by Plastic Block City, Inc. The firm is exhibiting in Room 468, Hotel McAlpin, and in their New York showrooms at 12 East 41 Street.

In an announcement from the Chicago home office, Patrick J. Buckley, Plastic Block City president said, "We are simplifying our three lines of construction toys, Block City, Brick Town, and Pre-School Building Blocks to make it easy for every jobber and retailer to order stock, display and sell. In addition, we are packing all sets in smaller, easily handled shipping cases."

Mr Buckley explained that the reduced size of shippers will facilitate wholesaler warehousing. In most cases, he explained, jobbers will not have to break cases even when shipping to small retailers. Every shipping carton will contain a counter card, window streamer, and [illegible] price sheet.

The Block City line, designed for youngsters 5 years old and up, will consist of four sets. Set #B-300, "The M[illegible]" contains 152 pieces and retails for $[illegible]. #B-500, "The Beverly Hills," 278 pieces, sells for $4.95. "Brick Town is the most authentic scale model construction set ever developed. It is scaled for model railroad use. In fact, it builds such realistic structures that it is used by architects, contractors and people who are planning new homes."

Brick Town sets, in square, sealed tubes, come in two sizes. Set #BT-800, "The Santa Fe" contains 526 pieces. It sells for $7.50. Retailing for $12.50 is #BT-1000, "The Bostonian." It contains 860 pieces.

Buckley, Plastic Block City president said, "We are simplifying our three lines of construction toys, Block City, Brick Town, and Pre-School Building Blocks to make it easy for every jobber and retailer to order stock, display and sell. In addition, we are packing all sets in small, easily handled shipping cases."

Mr. Buckley explained that the reduced size of shippers will facilitate wholesaler warehousing. In most cases, he explained, jobbers will not have to break cases even when shipping to small retailers. Every shipping carton will contain a counter card, window streamer, and [illegible] price sheet.

The Block City line, designed for youngsters 5 years old and up, will consist of four sets. Set #B-300, "The M[illegible]" contains 152 pieces and retails for $[illegible]. #B-500, 'The Beverly Hills,' 278 pieces, sells for $4.95. At $7.50, is #B-750, "The Chicagoan," containing 472 pieces, and at $15, #B 1500 with 950 pieces. All sets are packed in sealed tubes and contain roofing material and a [illegible] instruction book.

"Our fastest growing new toys," Mr. Buckley said, "are Pre-School Building Blocks. These big, colorful interlocking plastic blocks are excellent for children from two to six." Pre-School Building Blocks are packed in sealed tubes. Set #PS-195 contains 32 pieces and retails for $1.95. Set #PS-295, retailing at $2.95, has 56 parts.

Rounding out the Plastic Block City line are the Brick Town scale model construction sets. "Just as Pre-School Building Blocks are designed as a Block City starter set, the Brick Town sets appeal to youngsters (and adults) who want a more extensive building set," Mr. Buckley explained. "Brick Town is the most authentic scale model construction set ever developed. It is [illegible] for model railroad use. In fact, it builds such realistic structures that it is used by architects, contractors and people who are planning new homes."

Brick Town sets, in square, sealed tubes, come in two sizes. Set #BT-800, "The Santa Fe" contains 526 pieces. It sells for $7.50. Retailing for $12.50 is #BT-1000, "The Bostonian." It contains 860 pieces.

Finger-Tip Magnetized Bingo, a new, patented completely automatic bingo game with built-in finger-tip number markers and a magnetic barrel for number drawing, is now available from Regal Games Mfg. Company, Chicago.

BINGO
BINGO

Numbers are mixed in the miniature barrel. When the barrel is opened, a magnetized number automatically appears on the lid. These numbers are slid into the grooved master panel board where they remain in place in easy view. Individual cards are marked by simply covering called numbers with built-in "finger-tip" sliding windows, eliminating the bother of loose markers.

Included in each Finger-Tip Magnetized Bingo Game are 75 plastic numbers and a large grooved master board which securely holds numbers after they have been called. The game is available in two sizes, the #750 model of 12 cards and the #500 model containing six cards, with the option of buying extra cards. Each game is packaged in six-unit cartons in eye-catching gold lettered boxes. For use by clubs or at parties, the Finger-Tip Magnetized Bingo Game is durable enough for many years of enjoyment, the manufacturer contends.

"MR. PEEPERS" APPOINTED GROUP PLANETARIUM HEAD

Wally Cox, considered by many to be the alter ego of Mr. Peepers, name of the popular comedy series in which he stars three Sundays out of four on NBC-TV at 7:30 P.M., EST, has been appointed president of the newly-formed Junior Planetarium Association. The honor is a fitting one, since Cox, in the guise of Robinson J. Peepers, is probably the best-known "science teacher" anywhere in these United States.

The new Junior Planetarium Association, which is accepting applications from youngsters throughout the world, is being sponsored by the Harmonic Reed Corporation of Rosemont, Pa., inventors and manufacturers of the Spitz Jr. Planetarium, a small hardy plastic scale model for home, school and club use. The planetarium projects over 400 stars and constellations accurately and comes equipped with an attached electronic pointer and a book of detailed instructions.

Tom Liversidge, president of Harmonic Reed, in announcing the appointment of Cox, estimated that the association would probably total about 100,000 in the U.S.A., Canada and some 10 foreign countries by the year's end.

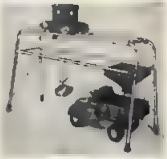
Six Additions to Tonka Line to Be Shown at Toy Fair



Six additions to the Tonka Toy line of metal trucks and allied toys for 1955 include a new long wheelbase truck chassis and an aerial sand loader, hailed by the company as the finest toy of this type ever built within the price range

All new models, with the company's improved present line, will be shown at the Toy Fair. The additions bring the total number of Tonka Toys to 22.

The aerial sand loader, a departure from the firm's traditional line of factual scale metal trucks and road building equipment, is patterned after the huge overhead loaders in use at the iron ore docks on Lake Superior. Made of heavy 20-gauge steel and aluminum tubing, the aerial loader consists of a cab mounted on four trolley wheels that traverse, by remote winding, the length of the aluminum rails. Slung under the cab is a weighted clamshell bucket which is opened and shut from a control on the cab and raised or lowered by a second. The bucket's action is so authentic that it will easily pick up a full load of sand, marbles or a flat coin from a tabletop. The cab is fire engine red. Rubber feet sheathe the legs. The toy is designed for use indoors with marbles or outdoors in sand.

Retailing at $12.95 the aerial loader is 19[illegible] high [illegible] wide and [illegible] long, individually packed six to a shipper. It is also available packaged with the Tonka Toy scale model dump truck #180-4 as a load-and-dump set, #825-5, to retail at $15.95 as the Aerial Sand Loader Set.

Another new Tonka Toy 1955 model is the Lumber Truck, an authentic long wheelbase reproduction of a yard lumber hauler, with a non-slip grid bed surface, snubbing chain, stakes, and, as a special "live" feature, rollers that can be turned by hand to unload the lumber

The Stake Truck has six realistic and removable side stakes and a tailgate. Jackie Gleason
(as "Ralph Kramden")

Lassie
(Herself)

Buster Crabbe
(as "Capt. Gallant")

Stone Associates Licensing Gleason, Lassie, Gallant

WALKING by Room 537 of New York's Hotel Plaza, you might at any time suddenly hear four men's voices cry "AWAY WE GO!" And indeed the occupants of #537 have gone far—from the merchandising world of 27-inch puppet Howdy Doody to the merchandising world of several TV giants. For these men now handle all the product licensing for Jackie ("Away We Go") Gleason, currently the hottest name in show business with TV's #1 rating and contracts covering his next 18 years on TV, "Lassie," prize-winning children's show and movie great, and "Captain Gallant of the Foreign Legion," newest TV adventure hit for kids among others

The four very enthusiastic men would be Stone Associates, headed by Martin Stone, working with his brother Allan, Milton P. Kayle and Edward Kean. Though Stone Associates was formed just three months ago, the members are no strangers to each other From 1947 to February, 1955, they worked hand in-hand on all the merchandising and many program phases of Kagran Corporation's Howdy Doody property. As president of Kagran, Martin Stone initiated the first merchandising activity in television through the use of the Howdy puppet, and with Allan, who was Kagran's merchandising V. P., developed Howdy until it became one of the most successful licensed characters in the United States. During that period they also handled the merchandising operation of Gabby Hayes, Jackie Robinson, Sonja Henie and Kool's Willie the Penguin. Mr. Kayle, who previously had been on the White House staff under President Truman as special assistant, served as counsel and merchandising director for the Kagran properties, and Mr. Kean wrote nearly 2,000 Howdy scripts, songs and commercials, as well as working with Allan Stone on the creation of show characters, merchandising and premium items

In February of this year, Martin sold his entire stock interest in Kagran Corporation to NBC and 24 hours later Stone Associates was open for business, with Allan, Kayle and Kean joining immediately. On the first day, Martin conferred with Jackie Gleason and the officers of Gleason's newly formed merchandising company, VIP Corporation. As a result, Stone Associates are now the exclusive licensing agents in all merchandising, endorsements and promotions for Jackie. Based on the Gleason licenses issued by Stone in just the few months since, TV's top comedian bids to become a hot name in merchandising, too, for 1955.

Among the toy firms which are licensed to produce Gleason items are: Empire Plastics Company, a junior-size bus driver's outfit; I. S. Sutton & Sons, Brooklyn N. Y., stuffed dancing dolls with plastic faces; Transogram Company, board and novelty games; Utopia Associates, Inc., a Story-Stage item, Wolverine Supply & Mfg Company, a metal lithographed bus, and several others

In addition, negotiations are in progress on many other items involving Gleason, the "Honeymooners" (the name of his Buick show this fall) and the various characters he portrays: Ralph Kramden the Bus-Driver, The Poor Soul, Reggie Van Gleason the Third, Rudy the Repairman, Joe the Bartender and Charlie Bratten, "The Loudmouth."

Having started the Gleason operation rolling, the Stones are now at work in a similar merchandising and service arrangement for the properties of Television Programs of America, leading film producer and syndicator. The TPA agreement authorizes Stone to license all products for these current TV shows: "Lassie," recent winner of the Academy of TV Arts and Science "EMMY" award as the best children's program of 1955; the Buster Crabbe series, "Captain Gallant of the Foreign Legion," which was filmed in Africa and Paris and stands out as the first new "twist" on the cowboys-and-rustlers theme, the "Spade Cooley Show" and "The Adventures of Ellery Queen." Stone will also merchandise three new TPA series now being filmed, "The Count of Monte Cristo," "Tugboat Annie" and "Leather Stocking Tales." Stone is also handling all endorsements personal appearances and promotions for the shows as well as creating all premiums and servicing local and national sponsors.

The Stones are now drawing up a program for the merchandising of Lassie items that will encompass a great variety of fields. High on the list are Lassie dolls, toys, records games, children's and adults' apparel, puzzles, inflatables and others. A national Treasury Department promotion centered exclusively around Lassie has been set for a late fall kick-off. Details are now being worked out, but it is already definite that Lassie will fly to Washington, D. C., in the fall for the kick-off ceremonies to be conducted by Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey, and that Lassie Savings Stamps Certificates will be readied for every schoolchild in the country, along with a 15-minute Lassie bond drive film to be distributed to every school Lassie is telecast Sunday night at 7:00 P.M., E.S.T on the CBS network, sponsored by Campbell's Soups. Lassie's most recent national rating was a lofty 30.4

Captain Gallant of the Foreign Legion is on the NBC-TV network Sundays at 5:30 P.M., E.S.T. for Heinz 57 Produced in Morocco in cooperation with the French Government, the series features actual Legion troops, with hordes of camels, horses, deserts and Legion forts The show stars Buster Crabbe, Olympic swimming champ, and features his son "Cuffy" as the "Junior Legionnaire" that every kid would like to be. The Stones plan items featuring both Captain Gallant and Cuffy, with Gallant playsuits, Legion "Kepi" hats, rifles and guns, tents, binoculars, sand goggles, coloring sets, story and comic books, medals, dolls, buttons, games, toys and others heading the list.

The Stones will service licensees completely at every level. Their operation includes an art department for the creation and design of items, labels and drawings to be used on such items and the packaging, advertising, display and promotional material for them; a creative department for assisting the manufacturer in the design of special, new items and the adaptation of previously manufactured items to fit the Stone properties; publicity and advertising staffs to service manufacturers for trade magazines, trade fairs and general publications; and a promotion staff whose contacts with department stores, buyers and all facets of the trade will maintain a continuing exploitation of licensed items. In addition, through their handling of all premium items for these properties' sponsors, the Stones promote and circulate licensed items at the TV level

What with Mr. Gleason, Captain Gallant, Lassie and the others, Stone Associates figure to have a busy few years ahead of them Indeed, as the Stones say when asked about their properties, "They're a dan-dan-dandy group!"

PINKY LEE AND J. FRED MUGGS JOIN HILL TOYS FOR 1955

Gaining momentum in a program of presenting highly promotional new numbers, Hill Toys has announced the addition of Pinky Lee and J. Fred Muggs numbers to their line. These two famous names are added to a list which already includes Roy Rogers and Ding Dong School.

All of these personalities are stars of NBC television programs with a following of millions of loyal viewing fans from coast to coast, and have a proven, powerful appeal, it is stated.

Pinky Lee stars five times a week the year around on the Pinky Lee Show. He has reportedly rocketed to tremendous popularity in a relatively short time, and his pulling power has been evidenced by the heavy response to direct premium offers.

J. Fred Muggs is the scene-stealing chimp on the NBC "Today" show. Muggs has cast his irresistible charm over millions of viewers, and captured the attention of the whole world on a recent highly-publicized globe-girdling trip.

The new Pinky Lee and J. Fred Muggs numbers will be shown at the Hill Toys showroom in Room 463, 200 Fifth Avenue, during the Toy Fair.

Another recent addition to the Hill Toys line is the Ding Dong Bell, a replica of the Ding Dong School trademark. The bell is used by "Miss Frances" Horwich on the NBC morning program to open and close her show, which is seen five times a week. Introduced late in 1954, the Ding Dong Bell was a sell-out on virtually every counter on which it appeared, Hill reports.

The Hill Toys Roy Rogers numbers, under the impetus of heavy consumer promotion, enjoyed a big success which is expected to be exceeded in 1955, the company adds.

A well-known Hill Toys number, the telephone, will appear in a completely redesigned form and is expected to add considerably to the consistently good volume enjoyed by the Hill telephones.

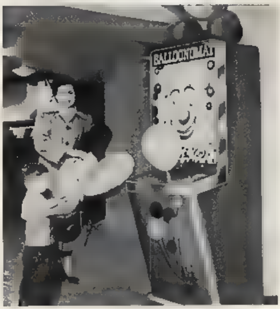
Howard Bessell has announced that a new warehouse was being completed at the Hill Toys factory in East Hampton, Conn., which will greatly improve the firm's service to its many outlets.

With the new promotional numbers added to a generally redesigned and revitalized line of pull toys, hobby horses, riding and action toys, Mr. Bessell states he anticipates a big year for all Hill Toys in 1955.

IN CIVIL DEFENSE

"To a very great degree," says Henry L. Buckhardt, chief, Morale, Welfare, and Recreation, Office of the Secretary of Defense, "the success of the total national defense effort in the years to come will be measured by the extent to which such agencies as the American Red Cross carry on their work."

24x18-Inch Machine Vends Balloons—and Inflates 'em



An excitingly new Automatic Merchandiser has just made its bow in retail stores. It's the Balloon O-Mat, which vends a gaily colored balloon for a dime and then blows it up.

Store management is said to be elated at the wonderful customer response to this unique and dramatic method of merchandising. Said one store spokesman, "We are especially pleased for we can now sell balloons profitably the year 'round in any part of the store—without selling cost and no shrinkage." "Balloon-O-Mat provides an easy way to merchandise what has hitherto been a 'hard-to-merchandise' commodity."

Balloon-O-Mat is compact, needs just 24" by 18" of floor space. A gay, circus color finish, a large illuminated clown on the front panel, and a flashing plastic balloon display on top feature the machine.

Balloon-O-Mat units have been on test operation in two of the Macy stores for the past several months, reportedly with continued customer acceptance. Multiple installations in the various Macy affiliate stores are now in progress. Installations are likewise to be made in principal cities across the country—and at no capital cost, it is emphasized.

Manufacturer is Capitol Projector Corporation, 556 West 52nd Street, New York City 19, manufacturers of Midget Movies, Mechanical Horses, Miniature Carousels and various other types of coin-controlled devices widely used by stores throughout the country.

SLIM JIM COUNTER CARD FROM PIONEER RUBBER

Another attractive assortment of Qualatex Balloons from the Pioneer Rubber Company, 180 Tiffin Road, Willard, Ohio, is the new Slim Jim Counter Card shown here.

Order #75-C, the card comes with three-dozen 5c balloons in a variety of colors. The styles and the sizes—when inflated are Spirals, 3" by 37"; Airships, 3" by 38", Nobbies, 3" by 39" and 3" by 40"

GRUMMAN

After several seasons of restricted production due to aluminum shortages and the business of moving their plant, the Metal Boat Company, (Division of Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corporation) at Marathon, New York, will have its full line in production for 1955.

The 8½-foot dinghy (Rhodes design) will be back in production and available for Spring.

The new 13-foot Fisherman, for motors of 15 h.p. or less, will also get into production. Its specifications read: length overall 13′4″, maximum beam 56″, transom width 46½″, depth bow 25¼″, depth center 20¼″, depth stern 18⅓″, weight 160 pounds.

Right: The Wizard 17-foot Sea Queen is built in one piece of fiberglass. The shelter cabin makes it an excellent practical utility boat. It is built in the company's plant at St. Joseph, Michigan

Left Albright Industries, Inc., Charlotte, N. C., build this 15-foot Riviera runabout. Other utility, deluxe and custom outboard models are available in addition to a 17-foot inboard

Left: New styling is reflected in the Aristo Craft line built by Atlanta Boat Works, Atlanta, Ga. Models range from a 12-foot runabout to an 18-foot cruiser, all outboard-powered. New this year is a 15-foot utility that has the lines of a runabout

Below: The new 14-foot Deluxe Utility Curly-Craft introduced by Northwestern Boat & Mfg., Detroit, Michigan. They also build outboards

An outstanding boat both in appearance and performance will be the DeLuxe 14-foot outboard Runabout complete with forward deck, midship bridge and windshield. In water tests carrying up to a 25 h.p. outboard motor it made little difference as to how many are in this boat (one or six) passengers, for it holds a fine trim. It banks well and a following sea seems to have no effect on its performance. Specifications read: length overall 14′6″, maximum beam 62½″, transom width 53½″, depth bow 31½″, depth center 24″, depth stern 21½″, weight 255 pounds.

SALERNO SHIPYARD

Now available in Florida are fiberglass boats, built in various sizes and with different styles, by Salerno Shipyard, Inc., located at Salerno, Fla. Four sizes with ten models are offered the public. The sizes are 15½ feet, 18 feet, 22 feet and 26 feet.

The 15½-foot boat is designed for use as an outboard, to be powered with a 10 to 25 h.p. motor and is made as a runabout, powered with a 60 h.p. Gray engine. This boat is made either with or without a skeg. For those boatmen who "trail" their boats, a skeg is permanently installed by the manufacturer to protect the propeller, etc., in loading and unloading the boat from a trailer, also designed and manufactured by Salerno Shipyard, Inc.

As in the 15½-foot size, two models are offered in the 18-foot size—either the Deluxe or the Fisherman. The 18-foot fiberglas boat can be equipped with a 60 h.p., 75 h.p. or 100 h.p. engine. A skeg is also furnished with this boat.

This boat makes a splendid utility boat, and manuevers easily. With a 60 h.p. engine, speeds of 22 m.p.h. are attained. Also available for hauling the 18-footer is a trailer designed and manufactured by Salerno.

The next size is the 22-footer powered by either a 100 or 115 h.p. Gray. This boat is available as an open fishing boat (either the Deluxe or Fisherman Model) or as a cruiser, with berths for two, enclosed toilet and galley.

The largest of the Fiberglas family is the 26-footer. This boat is also available as an open fishing boat in either the Deluxe or Fisherman Model; or as a cruiser. This boat is powered with any Gray engine from 115 h.p. to 165 h.p. or can be made into a twin-screw craft.

FEATHER CRAFT

The versatile silver fleet of aluminum Feather Craft boats for 1955 has four all-new hulls and numerous refinements. It starts with an 8-foot dinghy tender, spans a wide selection of cartopper, flat, vee, and round bottom fishing and sport runabouts, and this year will feature a convertible 18-foot outboard Cruisette as well as the 22½-foot cruiser. A written factory warranty, attesting to sound construction, materials and workmanship, covers a ten-year period.

New for 1955 is the sound-proofed Cruisette, an 18½-foot convertible cruiser. Sound-proofing as well as extra safety is afforded by the double-walled hull lined with high buoyancy Styrofoam. The large cockpit, roomy enough for comfortable family overnight cruising, closes in with a snug convertible top, side and back curtains for complete privacy; and adaptable for four berths; or opens completely for basking in the sun.

The versatile Cartopper, a trim, round bottom new craft for '55, combines feather weight and top performance with low horsepower outboard motors. Weighing a scant 89 pounds, it is completely portable and, with all-aluminum construction, requires little maintenance.

Meeting the need for a fast, open-water boat is the Super Chief, a roomy 16-footer with comfortable seating for six. Streamlined pullover forward deck lessens wind resistance while maintaining ample freeboard even when fully loaded.

Workhorse of the Feather Craft fleet is the Riverboat, ideal for commercial and pleasure fishing. Designed for minimum draft and utilizing square, landing-craft type bow, the 16-foot Riverboat is a big, rugged utility boat with maximum usable space.

Continuing in the Feather Craft line is the Voyager, a complete luxury outboard cruiser with four collapsible berths, compartmented head and galley; the fleet Voyager and Deluxe Runabout and a host of pleasure and fishing boats such as the Skipper, Favorite, Camper and others.

CUSTOM HYDROCRAFT

Speed and stability are well known features of twin-hulled craft and when these are combined with modern styling, comfort and performance you get Custom Hydrocraft. Built in San Diego, Calif., this builder specializes in twin-hulled boats. The Sea Cat Jet model, in 12, 14 and 16-foot lengths, can be used for racing or trolling with equal facility. The sailing models, called Sea Kittens, in 8, 10 and 12-foot lengths, will operate with sail or outboard engine, while the Hydroplay model in the same sizes makes a snappy craft for racing service.

In larger sizes the 16-foot Sea Cat is a sailing one-design racing craft as well as a pleasure craft. It has shown itself faster than larger boats, and when used with an engine becomes a safe and speedy motor craft. Larger sailing and motor models in 20 and 40-foot sizes are in process of development.

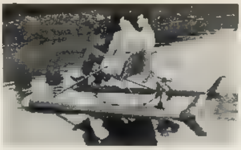
A fiberglass version of the Sea Jet and the Hydroplay Hot Rod models have been developed.

RAY GREENE

With a view toward minimum maintenance, Ray Greene & Co Toledo Ohio are building their Rebel class sloops, as well as their 9- and 10-foot sailing and rowing dinghies, and a 14-foot outboard of fiberglass. The only wooden boat in their production schedule is their 12-foot Nipper, a neat little catboat with 100 feet of sail

The Rebel class supplies a 16-foot comfortable racing and family boat with good speed and heavy weather qualities. It is easy to sail, and roller reefing gear permits shortening sail while under way. The weight of a fiberglass boat is considerably less than a comparable wooden hull so that it can be easily transported by trailer. Mast is of aluminum and weighs about 25 pounds so one man can step or unstep it without difficulty. Fleets of Rebels have been established in many areas and regattas have been arranged between these fleets.

The small Nipper in wooden construction is also a popular class boat.



The Water-Skeeter, made by Cool-O-Matic, Trucksville, Pa., can be driven by outboard or by foot pedals turning paddles. Weight is 175 pounds, pontoons of sheet or stainless steel

GUNDERSON CATAMARAN

Some excellent and clever modern versions of the South Seas catamarans have been developed during recent years. Catamarans have become known for their speed, seaworthiness and stability. The Gunderson Catamaran Company, Belmar, N. J., are offering kits in 8, 10 and 12-foot sizes for use with sail or outboard engines. The sizes are actually deceptive since their wide beam and double hulls produce greater usable space and carrying capacity.

The design has been well thought out so that the assembly of the kit should offer no difficulties, even to the amateur. The craft is made up of the twin hulls with a large platform between them. The parts are separable so that they may be carried from place to place by car. The boats offer unusual safety, and lively sailing and outboarding. Since they are almost as wide as they are long they are roomy and steady.

ENTERPRISE MARINE

A little utility boat which was first introduced to the boating public at the 1954 Miami Motor Boat Show is the 18-foot Hurricane built by Howard Abbey and distributed by Enterprise Marine Co., of Miami, Fla. This boat has a length of 18 feet and beam of 7¾ feet. It can be supplied as an inboard utility with a Gray engine of 60 or 75 h.p. and can also be arranged for use with the large 25 h.p. outboards. It is an excellent sea boat and in tests in heavy seas, has logged a consistent 23 miles. The outboard model has done 25 miles with the large 25 h.p. engine. Many of these boats are now in service and have been found to be ideal for skin diving, water skiing, and fishing.

Left: Gehrlein's Production Tooling Corp., Lindenhurst, L. I., N. Y., has this 26-foot Sea Skiff. She sleeps four and has separate head. Speeds to 40 m.p.h. with twin screws optional. This boat has teak decks

SEAMAN SEACRAFT

Seaman Seacraft Co., Roslyn, L. I. N. Y., announces the construction as a stock boat, of a new 30-foot auxiliary sloop. This new auxiliary was designed by William H. Tripp, Jr. The accommodations work out very well for extended cruising. She has sleeping accommodations for four, an enclosed head and compact galley with stove, sink and ice chest. Auxiliary power can be supplied with engines from 5 to 25 h.p. This new Seaman 30-footer has an exceptionally pleasing profile with her tall modern sloop rig, nice overhangs fore and aft and generous freeboard. Her construction is of the highest quality and materials used are the finest available, with white oak framing, mahogany planking and all bronze screw fastened. Dimensions are: L.O.A. 30 feet 5 inches; L.W.L. 20 feet 0 inches; Beam 8 feet 6 inches; Draft 4 feet 3 inches; Displacement 6370#; Sail area 424 square feet.

The 19-foot Seaman Lightning for the 1955 season will be the same high quality sailboat of past years. Her all-glued construction has proven most satisfactory.

This company also offers a 24-foot sport cruiser, designed by W. H. Tripp, Jr. Her beam and freeboard make her an able cruiser that will get you there and back in a hurry. Power is optional, single or twin, with speeds to 30 m.p.h. or higher.

Above: Seaman Seacraft's new 30-foot auxiliary has sleeping accommodations for four

Enterprise Marine Company's 18-foot Hurricane has optional inboard or outboard power. 33 m.p.h. with 75 h.p. inboard; 25 m.p.h. with 25 h.p. outboard

Bowman PLYWOOD BOATS

THERE ARE NO FINER plywood boats made All seams bed lasted with non-hardening plastic and candlewicked for added insurance against leakage. Ideal for trailer storage, long trips and use in extremely hot or dry climate Every boat water-tank tested under pressure

SOLID CORE MARINE plywood takes years of punishment and exposure Select oak frame, quarter knees, gunwales, seat stringers, keel, transom knee, keelson and breast hook. All oak parts impregnated with "Wood Life" to control dimensions, repel moisture, and resist rot. Brass fastened throughout for fresh or salt water Wide, comfortable seats of pine or equal

FOR SAFETY all Bowman boats have been approved by the Outboard Boating Club of America

VAGABOND and RESORTER boats permit level riding, easier maneuvering and better planing with motor Built on forms instead of ribbed frame, super strength due to special "bridge-type" truss beneath seats Longitudinal strength due to heavy brass screws which extend through keel and boat bottom into keelson Sturdy knee ties keelson to stern; also serves as handy stern lift handle. Solid-decked bow seat acts as step when entering boat and as dry storage beneath Protective oak batten trims lower sides full length along chines. Complete with bow eyebolt and oarlocks. Outside finished green with 3 coats of best marine enamel; bakelite marine varnish inside and gunwales.

VAGABOND "Lightweight" made of ¼" marine plywood with removable plywood floor racks. Easy to handle for car top carriage Ideal for smaller lakes or quiet coves of big lakes.

RESORTER "Wide Beams" for supreme safety of a large boat For fishing the big lakes. Extra wide transom for maximum stability ¼" sides and ⅜" marine plywood bottom and transom Sturdy, unobstructed floor easy to wash and keep clean

RASCAL and SPORTSTER boats are favored for water sports because full V-bottom is extremely fast; permits tight turns at high speed; performs well with both small and big motors. Steam-bent white oak stem provides maximum fullness at bow. 7-ply mahogany transom reinforced with oak. Sides of ¼" and bottom of ⅜" solid core marine plywood. Brass fastened to select oak ribs. Seams bed lasted and candlewicked. Enameled white topsides and green bottom, inside and gunwales finished with bakelite marine varnish. Chrome hardware.

Sportster boats are real eye-catchers. Unapproached in beauty of design and excellence of performance. Stern seats equipped with folding backs.

BACK IN PRODUCTION FIRST SINCE KOREA

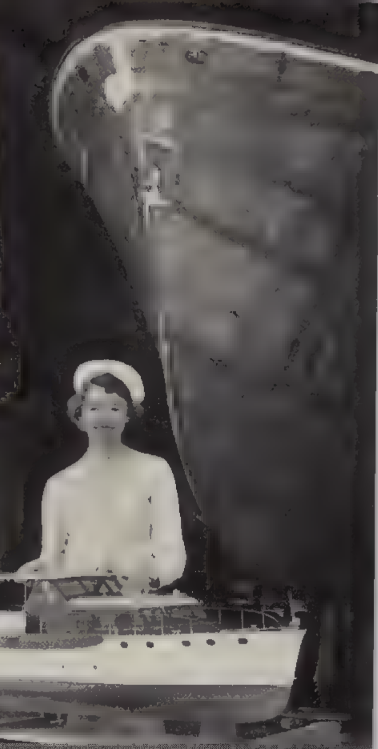
MANITOWOC, WIS.—For the first time since the Korean War, the famous Burger steel cruisers are again in production here. First of the new Burger "54's" will soon be cruising in Florida waters.

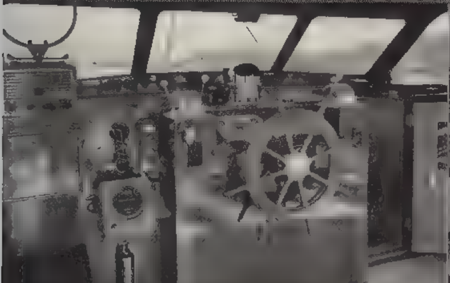
U. S. Navy contracts which will continue for another year put the Burger cruisers out of production. Due to the defense commitments, production of the cruisers will be on a limited basis for some time, according to Henry C. Burger, president and manager.

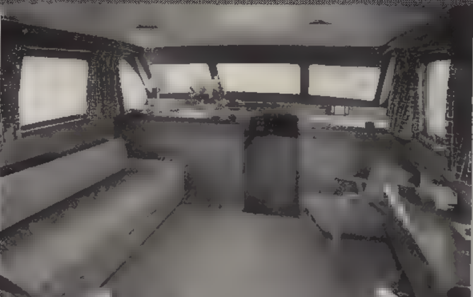
The new Burger "54", it was announced, has been entirely redesigned for the top performance of a cruiser of her size. The hull is welded steel and gives the Burger cruisers the ruggedness to go out and keep going when the going is tough.

1955—Our 90th Year

Entirely new hull lines created in association with Dair N. Long of Newport Beach, Calif. make the new Burger "54" the outstanding performer and dryest and cleanest running cruiser of her size class. The hull form is still the same, the famous non-pounding Burger combination vee and round bottom. Construction is still the most modern afloat—welded steel, the choice of experienced yachtsmen. Lower first-cost, much lower maintenance and insurance, far higher re-sale value and above all the ultimate in carefree, safe cruising. . . . Such is the familiar story of the Burger steel hull. Styling, too, has kept pace with the hull design. Like its predecessor, "international inspiration" for a score of foreign and domestic builders, the new Burger "54" will set the pattern for styling in good taste for years to come.







Burger standard steel cruisers now in 54, 60, 65 and 70 ft. Colorful new brochure on request.

New, Improved 3-D Sawyer Viewmaster

FULL COLOR THREE-DIMENSIONAL TRAVELOGS, FAIRY TALES AND ADVENTURE

When you look at View-Master Pictures through the View-Master Stereoscope, it's like stepping through Alice's looking glass into a new world. Every object has the fullness, the depth, the roundness of reality—you feel confident you can touch and even reach around and behind trees, rocks, and people. The pictures are brilliant Kodachromes in reels of 7 full-color, 3-dimensional scenes—actually there are 14 pictures to each reel because each eye sees its own picture as in real life. View-Master has the largest, most varied library of reels in the 3-D field many of which are listed below. More titles are being added regularly. There are more than 300 to choose from that range from travel pictures of our own country and throughout the world, to wild animals, beloved fairy tales and Bible stories—for both children and adults. Complete list of all View-Master Reels included with order — or write for free list.

"Racing demands spark plug performance— but when my boys are running, my first thought is spark plug dependability.

CHAMPIONS PROVIDE BOTH!"

—says AL BENSON of Seattle, father of JIMMY (left) and DON BENSON . . . all outboard enthusiasts and racing pilots. The three Bensons were awarded the 1954 Seafair Outstanding Driver award—the first time it has ever been given as a multiple citation.

Al Benson is a tough competitor in the D Stock Hydros and the DU Stock Runabout classes, but his greatest boating pleasure is helping his boys, Donnie and Jimmy, go after records in the mile trials. Don set a JU record in 1951 that stood until 1953. Then he graduated to AU's, shattering the record for this class.

Last August, Jimmy took over in the JU's, skimming along Lake Washington for a new JU mark. The previous day, Al had taken a 1st and a 2nd in his classes at the Seafair event.

So, the Bensons know outboard racing. That's why they choose Champion Spark Plugs . . . for Champions make any boat's power plant—inboard or outboard—run better, last longer.

HOLIDAY YACHTS

Holiday Yachts of Centerport, New York, are building in Europe a custom 72-foot twin screw diesel cruiser for delivery to an American owner. Built entirely of welded steel, the hull will be durable and substantial. Deckhouse and superstructure will be of mahogany and teak with windows of shatterproof glass. Joiner-work on the interior will be of plywood panelling with solid mahogany trim.

Fuel and water tanks will be carried in the double bottom, with large capacity to permit long distance cruising without the need for frequent refueling stops. An unusual feature will be a supplementary water tank designed to be refilled from rainwater. This will help to conserve the potable water and extend the radius greatly

For power, there will be a pair of 200 h.p. Caterpillar diesel engines with 3-to-1 reduction gears. This will permit the use of large propellers and produce a cruising speed of 16 knots or better. Engine room space will be exceptionally large so that the several units installed will not be crowded and permit free inspection and maintenance.

Electric equipment will include a 20 kw. U. S. generating set as well as a 5 kw. generator, driven by one of the main engines. This will supply ample power for all electrical requirements. A refrigerator and deep freeze unit will be installed in the galley.

The owner's quarters will be aft and provision is made for a large owner's room with twin beds and ample locker space. A guest stateroom is so designed that a removable partition can separate it into two individual staterooms, each with its own dresser, berth, and other essential fittings. A large dining salon will be in the deckhouse aft of the pilot house where the controls and navigating equipment will be carried. Quarters for the crew, including a stateroom for the captain will be provided in the forward portion of the yacht.

Holiday's custom 72-footer is built in Europe

In smaller sizes, the Jr. Holiday has exceeded all expectations. There are about 25 of this model now in U. S. waters, and it is expected that an equal number will be added to the roster during the coming summer. An advantage of this little boat is that it can be readily carried by trailer so that many interesting sailing areas are open to them.

A new boat last year was the 30-foot Holiday, a cruising and racing sloop with accommodations for from four to six persons. Both standard and economy types of this boat are available.

Another newcomer to the Holiday fleet is a 22-foot sailer. This boat features a mast which may be lowered when required. It has an enclosed head. The berths have full length foam mattresses. Her cockpit is large and the overnight accommodations are excellent. She is also light enough to permit moving about by trailer. The 35-foot Mariner and the 36-foot yawl Bermudian are other additions to the fleet.

Designed for a Mexican yachtsman, the 46-foot ketch Explorer is the last word in world cruising yachts. She will be prominent in Pacific events, and her easily handled one-man rig eliminates the need for a large crew.

BENSON'S ANCHORS

Benson's Anchors, Inc. of Syracuse, N. Y., have two new additions to their anchor line for 1955. One is a 4-pound rowboat anchor which is the answer to the small boat fisherman's demand for a light weight snag proof anchor.

The outstanding feature of the Benson anchor in addition to its holding power and light weight is the patented sliding ring design which makes it possible to recover a snagged anchor by sliding the ring back down the shank and pulling the anchor back out the way it went in. Because of the snag-proof feature a much lighter line of ¼ or 5/16-inch diameter can be used

This new 4-pound anchor also appeals to small boat liveries who can now equip their boats at low cost with a good holding anchor that can be released when snagged and thus reduce their losses from cut ropes and lost anchors

Benson's are also introducing a new low cost improved design of their one piece self-locking anchor chock.

The Benson anchor can be easily retrieved if accidentally fouled

M. L. CONDON

The M. L. Condon Company, Inc., has added two new products. BoatLife Plastic Canvas Seal will waterproof any type of canvas or porous surface. It is recommended for all boat canvas, canoes, tents, tarpaulins, awnings, etc. It dries in 20 minutes.

BoatVinylife, a copper vinyl anti-fouling bottom finish, is the other new product for longer lasting protection of boat bottoms. This liquid plasticized vinyl plastic prevents teredo worms or any other organic or crustaceous growth on bottoms. The copper, released at a controlled rate, prevents marine growth for as long as 18 months to 2 years. BoatVinylife gives positive waterproofing and the film is so tight it prevents drying out and seam separation while in storage. BoatVinylife, the manufacturers state, will not crack, craze, alligator, or peel after 24 hours dry. It is unaffected by salt water, acids, alkalis or fumes.

BoatLife Durable Plastic Finishes continue to be offered in blue, red, green, gray, ivory, gloss or flat white colors, as well as the popular Plasticlear.

M. L. Condon Co., Inc. continues to supply boat builders and boat yards with all types of boat lumbers and marine plywoods. For details write to M. L. Condon Co., Inc., 270 Ferris Avenue, White Plains, N. Y.

HENDERSON & JOHNSON

A new, anti-fouling marine paint called Copperclad has been developed and marketed by Henderson & Johnson, Inc. of Gloucester, Mass. Copperclad is unconditionally guaranteed for a period of six months. This written, money-back guarantee covers the use of the paint in both fresh and salt water—in northern as well as tropical climates.

Equally effective on steel or wood, Copperclad is extremely easy to brush, requires no special thinner and dries to a firm protective coating in four hours.

Copperclad is recommended for all medium speed boats. Its nominal cost makes it an ideal anti-fouling paint for all boat owners

WM. L. VROOMAN

A completely new racing lower unit for Evinrude and Johnson 25 h.p. outboard engines has been developed by William L. Vrooman, Watertown, New York. It is highly streamlined, with a maximum diameter of the gearbox of 2¼ inches. The gear ratio is 1-to-1 with the gears of heat-treated alloy steel. Shafting is stainless chrome steel and the bearings are of the ball thrust type.

Another similar unit is made for the Evinrude 15, Johnson 10, and for the Gale 12 h.p. engine. Its proportions are such as to adapt it to the smaller engine. Both units are designed to permit a rapid gear change and other gear ratios can be supplied on special order

"Dragnet," Draw-O-Matic Lines Shown by Carnell at Fair

Carnell Manufacturing Company, one of the largest producers of toy gun and holster sets for children, featured two new lines at the Toy Fair, according to Stanley Breslow, president.

These were (1) a full line of official "Dragnet" police sets, and (2) the firm's new patented "Draw-O-Matic" outfit. Carnell will produce the "Dragnet" set under an exclusive licensing arrangement with Sherry TV, Inc., owners of "Dragnet," one of the nation's top-rated TV and radio programs. The items are now on exhibit at Carnell's New York City showrooms (Room 324), 200 Fifth Avenue.

One "Dragnet" set, a $2.98 number, (shown above), includes a holster embossed with the official "Dragnet" insignia, a belt, a police gun, the official "714" badge, a container to hold an official "Dragnet" Club card, and badge, three silvered bullets in a gun clip, and a set of handcuffs. The holster and belt are of genuine leather.

A larger set, to retail at $3.98, contains a leather holster, Sam Browne belt, bullet clip with six bullets, large type police gun, holder for the "Dragnet" Club card and "714" badge as well as police type whistle and leather holder for two pencils.

Other sets will retail for $1.98 and $4.98. All units will feature packaging bearing the picture of Jack Webb 'Dragnet' star, and his personal signature.

The "Draw-O-Matic Gun & Holster Sets" feature a patented device that promises to give the "junior cowboy" the fastest draw in the neighborhood. The holster is equipped with a patented spring device that instantaneously ejects the gun into the hand by a light tap on a button on the belt, or holds the gun firmly in place during play. The belt and holster are made of genuine leather, and are generously decorated with typical cowboy designs in rosettes and jewels. The belt is adjustable to fit any waist size. The sets come in one and two-gun outfits.

Mr. Breslow indicated that Carnell's traditional line of Western type gun and holster sets for children that bear the trade name "Roundup" will be also exhibited. These sets range in retail price from 98c to $14.95. In addition, Carnell will introduce new items in gun and holster sets, it is announced.

New Line of Daisy Play Guns, Games for '55

Daisy Manufacturing Company, Plymouth, Mich., has announced a new line of harmless play rifles, play guns, games, holster sets in fresh styling, modern colors and crisp new selling packages. And the company's 1955 air rifle and shot line has been further improved, according to the announcement.

Some examples of Daisy's "fresh forward look" are: a complete super play rifle line (inspired by 1954's harmless "960 smoker") which features the #1060 Super-Smoker and Annie Oakley "golden" smoke rifle for girls; new holster sets carrying the famous selling names of Red Ryder and Annie Oakley; and Ramar of the Jungle Outfits.

Daisy's attractively redesigned air rifle line includes many new promotional items such as a genuine leather BB Loader Wallet for stimulating sales even more on the 700 BB shot package (renamed "Red Ryder BB Refill Pack"). Air rifles have new styling, new colors, and easier cocking, and each is packaged in the new gun-carrying-case carton with the "do-it-yourself" feature. Also included in the packing of air rifles numbers 25, 94 and 80 is the new Daisy BB Loader Wallet and two full BB Refill Packs.

The new Daisy Super Play Rifle Line models are individually packaged in the new "gun case" cartons except for improved model #960.

A new display rack holding any four Daisy Air Rifles or harmless Super Play Rifles is offered free to dealers. The largest national advertising program Daisy has ever scheduled to appear during May and June in the comic magazines will boost sales on all Daisy products, the manufacturer adds.

1929 DUESENBERG LATEST REVELL AUTO MODEL KIT

Duesenberg, the mammoth custom auto remembered as the "Mightiest American Motor Car," is the newest Highway Pioneer in Revell's line of miniature car construction kits.

Lewis H. Glaser, Revell president, announced the release of the 1929 Model J Duesenberg, stating, "E. L. Cord and Fred Duesenberg worked two years developing this car. Their goal was 'the biggest, fastest and most powerful stock automobile the world has ever seen.' We feel the Revell scale reproduction is equally spectacular!

"No two Duesenbergs were exactly the same. A 1929 Duesenberg buyer bought the standard wheel base, running boards, headlights, fenders, radiator shell and bumpers. From there on he was on his own with a choice of magnificent custom bodies by Le Baron, Rollston, Murphy or Derham. However, we feel that our choice of the 265 hp Le Baron phaeton is representative of one of the most elaborate and distinctive Duesenbergs. Supercharged, it could do a top of 130 mph," Mr. Glaser reveals.

The all-plastic Revell Duesenberg incorporates every minute detail of the sporty original, including the extra tonneau windshield, twin horns, four "flexible" cylinder exhaust tubes, tires in fender wells, hood-mounted parking lamps, running boards, chrome-connected headlights, giant taillight, double bar bumpers, hood vents, a spacious rear trunk, chrome fender and engine strips, and two figures, authentically dressed in the Duesenberg-era fashion.

Arresting blue, black and white window banners showing the two-tone Duesenberg speeding along a 1929 highway are packed free with each order. Made-up models are also available. The 1929 Duesenberg retails at 89¢.

doll industry, and until this situation changes, I don't see how they can. Manufacturers will have to accept that fact and make their plans accordingly.

"Now—volumewise—what can we look forward to in the coming year? If we study the birthrate statistics over the past few years in this country, we can be sure there is an ever-increasing number of doll users in this country. At the present time there is the greatest number of female children in the history of the country. Do they have money? The nation's leading economists predict prosperity, so I think we can look forward to a good doll year.

New Toys on Parade

SEARCHLIGHT TRUCK newly introduced permits junior firemen to throw a little light on make-believe blazes. Modeled after the vehicles found in station houses across the country, the toy is produced by Charles William Doepke Manufacturing Co., Rossmoyne, Ohio.

Built as a companion to the company's other scale model fire engines, the new truck is a replica of American-LaFrance equipment. As much detail as possible has been reproduced.

The searchlight unit is mounted in the center. Operated with two flashlight batteries that supply power to the light, the self-contained section resembles the power generator of the real truck. Simulated controls are located on each side. The entire section is removable to replace the batteries.

Mounted on a yoke support, the light rotates 360 degrees as well as up and down to direct the beam. Cross hatch lines on the glass lens for focussing the beam have been copied from the real light. The parabolic reflector is of spun aluminum. An on-and-off switch is located atop the generator.

Finished in white baked enamel, the new toy has steerable front wheels and riding space in the rear for toy firemen. Retail price is $13.95; batteries are not included.

Scarne Wins Teeko Tournament, Ten Top Troupers Toppled

JUDY HOLLIDAY

John Scarne, standing, begins playing 'celebrity row.'

John Scarne, the internationally-known authority on games, magic and sleight-of-hand, who has developed the new skill game of Teeko, played 10 celebrity-experts simultaneously in a Teeko tournament on March 14 in the Hunt Room of the 21 Club, New York City. It was mathematically possible for him to lose $10,000 during the course of play, as he offered to pay a thousand dollars to anyone winning two out of three games from him. However, the Scarne bankroll remained intact as he won or drew all of his games. The Teeko enthusiasts who tried to outstrategy the master were Larry Evans, three times national open chess champion, Tom Wiswell, world's unrestricted checker champion, John Crawford, winner of many national bridge championships and six Vanderbilt Cups; Jim Braddock, former world's heavyweight champion; Steve Allen and his wife, Jayne Meadows, playing as a team; Judy Holliday; Walter Slezak, Jinx Falkenberg; Frances Langford; and Patty McCormack, child star of "The Bad Seed."

Teeko is made by John Scarne Games Company, Fairview, N. J. It is a simple board game played with eight pieces, and sales reports indicate that it is gaining enthusiasts at a rapid clip. Scarne has written many books on games, toured Army camps all over the world, and even given command performances at the White House. His ambition has always been to develop a game that would rival checkers in widespread popularity, and he feels that he has achieved this aim. He says that Teeko is so simple in principle that a child or adult can actually learn to play it in five minutes; yet the possibilities for different and intriguing playing positions are so tremendous that it cannot be memorized or completely mastered. Scarne also reports that interest in the game has grown at such a fast pace that he was asked to write a book about technique of winning play, with pictures, diagrams, match games etc. He has done so, and "Scarne on Teeko" has been issued by Crown Publishers, Inc., 419 Fourth Avenue, New York City 16.

acteristics—for use in bonding, laminating, surface finishing, molding, and construction in association with fiberglass cloth. Even the most ardent advocates of fiberglass would not claim it a miracle product to be used without regard to the nature of the work it is expected to do. But, properly applied, according to its manufacturer's explicit directions, it does open up completely new concepts of leak-proof, rot-free, long-lived, construction techniques, in which maintenance problems are reduced to an absolute minimum. Plastic molding of one-piece hulls and superstructures is now practical, not only in the many forms of small craft, but even cruisers and auxiliaries as well.

Aluminum has forged into prominence as a basic material for boat construction. Applied first in specialized usage to create strong lightweight spars and similar parts, it has lately, with its present unrestricted availability, been chosen by many manufacturers as a material for fabrication of the whole boat light, tight and durable. The scope of its applicability is only beginning to be appreciated. Aquaplanes of aluminum are available today—even houseboats, 30 odd feet in length, complete with every facility, including refrigeration and air conditioning.

Aquaplaning and water-skiing have a host of devotees. The sport seems to go hand-in-hand with, and follow as a natural adjunct to, today's high-powered outboards with their exhilarating speeds and flashing performance. The powerful, silent motors of 25 h.p. and more plane big runabouts out, with not one, but an entire team of skiers, tethered in their white wakes.

Practical, economical utility boats are riding a well-deserved wave of popularity. They're available in a great range of sizes and types, for fishing, camping, general knockabout use—or just for getting the family afloat for the sheer fun of it. The Navy top, resurrected from an earlier day and modernized for maximum convenience, is a logical accessory. Today, the "utility" no longer connotes a plodding "launch"—with its real utility compromised for want of comfort and speed. You can have both . . . and powered, believe it or not, even with twin screws in hulls as small as 21 feet!

Lapstrake skiffs are perennial favorites. Many of the big builders are turning them out in popular utility sizes. Like their big brothers, whether inboard- or outboard-powered, they combine runabout speeds with rough water ability.

In the realm of big inboard design, trends in the automotive field are reflected in new concepts of styling and luxury of accommodations. When combined with a basically seaworthy and well engineered hull, the result adds up to distinctive achievement. Lines are flowing, to integrate superstructures into a more unified profile. Materials are chosen with an eye to beauty as well as utility. Color is used to create new standards of harmony in decoration and finish

The power to drive these pleasure craft of a new era can be almost anything the boatman desires. If economy is the criterion, there is a wide range of unobtrusive little motors that stow away below, completely isolated from living quarters. If a diesel is preferred, hull size and weight impose few limitations . . . the "small-boat" diesel is an accomplished fact. If speed is the paramount consideration, there are new V-8's that unleash hundreds of horsepower at the touch of a throttle

Yes, beyond any question, we have entered a new era. Look where you will, the evidence is only too clear. Every indication points toward expansion of this universal sport in ever-widening circles. It takes but a brief sail in practically any type of pleasure boat to convert landsman to boatman. With growing facilities for service and maintenance in the form of efficient marinas appearing on all the navigable waterways, and the last obstacle to low-cost boating hurdled, we can look forward with assurance to the day when the "boatless" family will be an exception rather than the rule.

window adjusters provide a means for adjusting the windshield at any opening. Sealing the edges of all plywood is very important, and is most effectively accomplished before assembly. A sealing compound made for this purpose should be used. All plywood having fir surfaces should be given a coat of Firzite to tame the grain, and given a prime coat of paint.

After all parts have been completed the cabin is ready for assembly. The lower cross piece is set in bedding compound and fastened in place using wood screws. The sides are then set against the lower cross piece, the top cross piece being set in at the same time, and the joints glued applying pressure using bar clamps. The cabin sides are secured to the cat walks with good screws set at an angle. Quarter round ¾-inch molding is set in bedding compound and secured with wood screws all around the outside of the cabin, wherever the cabin is attached to the boat. The ribs are set in place and the ¼-inch plywood overhead panel nailed down using clinch type nails.

The assembly completed all marks, counter sink marks, and indentations should filled in with a wood filler. All sharp corners rounded and the entire cabin sanded. At least three coats of marine paint is necessary to protect the cabin from exposure to salt water. J.K.K., UNIONDALE, N. Y.

HUCKINS ANNOUNCES NEW SPORTSMAN 40

A new Fairform Flyer, the 1955 Model Sportsman 40, has been announced by the Huckins Yacht Corporation, Jacksonville, Fla. She sleeps four on lower berths; five, with an optional folding berth in the deckhouse.

The arrangement is the result of many requests by Fairform Flyer owners and experienced yachtsmen, who prefer the combined comforts of cruising and sport fishing in a seagoing, planing hull. The seated visibility in the deckhouse, and the spacious bridge with large aft cockpit, are noteworthy features.

The Sportsman 40 is 40′ 8″ OA with a breadth of 12′ 1″ and a draft of 2′ 4″. Freeboard at the bow is 5′ 4″ and 3′ 2″ at the stern.

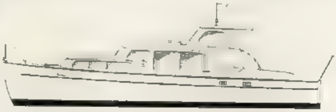
Standard power is twin Chrysler Imperial V-8 engines of 200 h.p. each, providing a cruising speed of 24 knots and a top speed of over 30 m.p.h. The low trolling speed of the Sportsman 40 is ideal for deep-sea fishing. Optional power is available, including twin GM 471 diesels for lower cruising speeds. Fuel capacity is 216 gallons and 86 gallons of fresh water.

The arrangement of the Sportsman 40 is such that outriggers, fishing chairs and other deep-sea fishing gear may be installed most effectively.

The Quadraconic Hull of the Sportsman 40 is of the same type of construction as used in Fairform Flyers for many years. Planking is double-diagonal mahogany, plastic-bonded, and Everdur-fastened. Frames, chines, clamps and laminated keel are white oak.

Four watertight bulkheads subdivide the hull into five watertight compartments, a practice of bulkheading that continues throughout the Fairform Flyer line.

Many innovations will be found in the Sportsman 40, including independent electric bilge pumps in each of the main watertight compartments, and float signal bullseyes and pump switches within reach of the steersman, in the control panel.



Profile of the Huckins Yacht Corporation's new 1955 Sportsman 40 for offshore fishing. She can sleep five at higher speeds does have its disadvantages. The boating season is usually shortened for the utility boat owner, and many times it may be necessary to hoist anchor just as the fish are starting to bite because of weather conditions unfavorable to the occupants of an open boat.

The owners of these boats can improve the appearance and greatly increase the value of their boats by the addition of a light weight, low cost shelter cabin.

Contrary to opinion, the construction of such a cabin may be a simple, inexpensive project which may be completed during the winter months at any location desired, if a proper procedure is followed.

There are general factors in design which will apply to all boats:

Weight—Construction must be strong yet light in weight, because all weights added above the center of gravity of the boat will raise that center of gravity and affect the transverse stability of the boat.

Shape—The shape and size of the cabin must conform to the lines of the boat. The cabin should enhance the appearance and increase the value of the boat

Method of construction—If we intend to produce a craftsman like project it is obvious that it will be necessary to have the proper tools, and a comfortable place to work in. Therefore, a method of construction which will permit the building of the shelter cabin at any desired place, in sections, during the winter months, and completing assembly on the boat in the spring, would seem to be the most practical

The first step in construction is to make templates. Tempered masonite ¼ inch thick is an ideal material to use. It is easily cut using woodworking tools, it is inexpensive, and will not change shape once it is cut.

Two templates are required. A side template, the base of which conforms to the sheer of the boat, and a front cross piece template placed athwartships, set at an angle conforming to the windshield angle, and cut to the curvature of the deck

The beauty of the completed cabin depends upon the shape of the side template. Therefore, it is best to set the template on the boat after its base has been fitted, and mark the shape View the design from a distance and make necessary changes until the desired lines are obtained. Points to check are: the height, length, windshield angle, side window (size and shape), etc.

After the templates are completed all other work aside from final assembly, may be completed away from the boat. The sides and lower cross piece are cut to match the templates. A mock set up of the two sides and lower cross piece is made This set up should be made on a flat surface and is held together using C clamps. It is important that the mock set up is exactly the same as it would be when assembled on the boat The measurement taken during template construction between the sides as indicated on the sketch is used to assure the correct distance at the rear of the cabin. All other parts may now be cut taking measurements from the set up.

The sides, overhead panel, and windshield are cut from marine grade waterproof plywood (D.F.P.A. ext.). Crosspieces, ribs, supports and fillets are cut from white pine. Plexiglass may be used for windows. Quarter round ¼-inch molding is used to hold the plexiglass in place. If the shape of the windows calls for round corners, short pieces of lead molding are easily formed into these corners. Wood molding is used on all straight surfaces. All windows are set in bedding compound.

Waterproof marine glue and brass wood screws are used to join parts. Mortise and tenon, or doweled joints should be used to join crosspieces to the cabin sides. The use of canvas on the overhead may be avoided by purchasing a plywood panel finished on both sides. A recess is cut in the overhead support fillets, and the panel is set into the recess using bedding compound. The seams are covered with half round molding also set in bedding compound. Short spaces at low points are provided to allow water to run off.

A piano hinge backed with canvas holds the windshield;

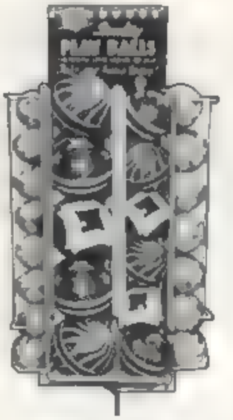
ALL-STAR ITEMS

BALLS and BALLOONS! ATHLETIC BALLS! PACKAGES! VENDORS!



Here's the lustrous new Barr line for 1955—new, fresh, sparkling! But, what is more important, this line is more profitable for YOU than ever before! Here's why . . .

A line is no better than the profits it creates. And to create satisfactory profits a line must move. That's why frequently a product is only as good as its packaging and only as valuable as its brightness and eye appeal. We at Barr know that, and this knowledge is more than ever reflected in your Barr line for '55.

See for yourself. Look at the attention arresting brilliance of the new line of "Continental" gas inflated balls . . . look at the bigness, the boldness of our "Sport Ball" . . . note the high color and attractive design of our balloon packages . . . consider the startling appeal of our face balls . . . and observe the vending units that help sell our high bouncing play balls. And these are but a few of many wonderful, new, profitable items.

"Sky Zoo," Companion Item to Junior Planetarium, on Market

Harmonic Reed Corporation, Rosemont, Pa., one of the nation's leading manufacturers of plastic musical toys and inventors and manufacturers of the popular Spitz Junior Planetarium, has introduced a new plastic "Sky Zoo," Tom Liversidge, president, has announced.

The new "Sky Zoo" actually can project, through clear plastic, constellation animals and mythological figures represented by stars onto the walls and ceiling of a darkened room. The animals and figures coincide with the actual stars and constellations projected by the Spitz Jr. Planetarium. A total of 35 figures, including the Big Bear, Little Bear, Perseus, Argo-Narvis, etc., can be seen with the "Sky Zoo."

In addition to its educational value as a companion item to the Spitz Jr. Planetarium, the "Sky Zoo" can be used independently to educate youngsters, Scouts, etc., or tell bed-time stories to tiny tots. An electronic arrow projector comes with each "Sky Zoo," along with a booklet giving the complete history of each animal or mythological figure.

This item is the second in a series of scientific toys now being produced by Harmonic Reed. The company also produces the new Spitz Jr. Planetarium, with the attached electronic sky pointed and booklet on constellations. The line is also being used by clubs, Scouts, schools and colleges throughout the world.

The "Sky Zoo," entirely made of plastic, comes in three colors and is packed in a colorful package. It stands 15" high and retails at about $14.95.

ONE OUTSTANDING DESIGN

THREE DISTINCTIVE MODELS

THE HINCKLEY '36'

THE CUSTOM '36'

Here is the incomparable Custom Hinckley '36', leader without question among the finest auxiliaries built today. The exceptionally well balanced hull and the unique original cabin layout offer the discriminating yachtsman an entirely new approach to racing and cruising comfort. This is the one yacht that will pass every test of quality, in design, in specifications, in workmanship, and as you would naturally expect, in sailing ability. The Custom Hinckley '36' is truly a creative effort bearing the hallmark of Custom quality in every detail

THE STANDARD '36'

The Standard Hinckley '36' is offered expressly for those who prefer the conventional cabin arrangement in combination with the outstanding performance guaranteed by the use of the Hinckley '36' hull design. Every effort has been made to provide the utmost in sailing efficiency and cruising comfort obtainable in an auxiliary of this type. The high specifications and attention to details adhere to the best traditions of yacht construction. The Standard Hinckley '36' is an outstanding value, of moderate initial cost and subsequent low maintenance

THE SPECIAL '36'

Pictured here for the first time is the exciting new economy model, the Special Hinckley '36'. The famous Hinckley '36 hull has remained unchanged, both in design and construction. The highly developed and efficient rig has also been retained, yet a substantially reduced price has been made possible by the elimination of much of the expensive interior joinerwork and trim The Special Hinckley '36' now makes it possible for many more yachtsmen and their families to enjoy the prestige and satisfaction of owning a Hinckley auxiliary

If you plan to attend the National Motor Boat Show, we extend a cordial invitation to visit our booth. Or for our newest brochures on any or all of the above models, contact us or our representative nearest you

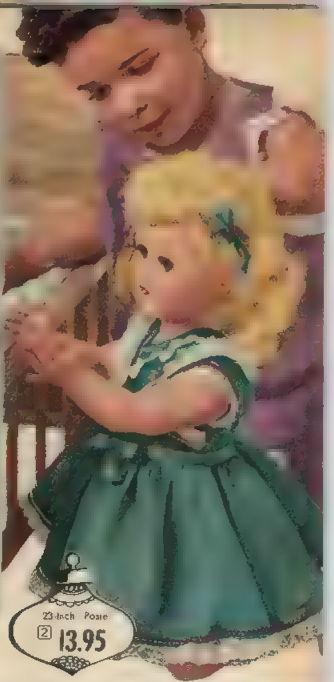
I walk and turn my head from side to side



See All The Things We Can Do!

① I'M HORSMAN'S "CINDY"—I WALK WHEN GUIDED

- Guide me, I walk—non-mechanical construction can't break
- Wash, comb, brush, curl my long rooted Saran pony tail

I'm big as life and just as cute—all vinyl plastic with carefully sculptured head, finely detailed hands and feet, thickly lashed glassene eyes that sleep. My extra long, shining hair is rooted into my scalp like real hair and tied with a big Blue bow (I have 2 curlers to help Mommy style it). I'm a big girl but coo sometimes. I wear a faille dress with buttons, lace and a corsage, lace-trimmed slip, taffeta panties, socks and shoes.
R35 J 3701. 25½-inches Tall. Mailable. (6 lbs.) 9.95

② I'M IDEAL'S "POSIE"—I WALK, BEND MY KNEES!

- I kneel, sit naturally, assume dozens of life-like positions!
- I turn my head when I walk; like to have my hair shampooed

I do so many things you have to own me to find out how much fun I am! My body is sturdy plastic and conceals Ideal's exclusive Magic Walking Action. My head is beautifully molded, baby-soft vinyl with silky, thick rooted Saran curls with bows and flowers. Mother can brush out my curls and reset them in different ways with my own curlers (included). My long-lashed glassene eyes close for naps; I cry. I wear a lovely organdy dress trimmed with bows, flowers and lace; half-slip, panties, socks, shoes.
R35 J 3718. 23-inches Tall. Mailable. (7 lbs.) 13.95

③ I'M WALKING "PAM"—I HAVE AN EXTRA DRESS

- Now I have a skin-soft vinyl head with longer, rooted Saran hair
- I own 6 curlers, rat-tail comb and "Gold" heart-shaped locket

Mother will have so much fun washing and setting my hair—it's extra long for lots of styles. My long-lashed glassene eyes close for naps and my slim plastic body is practically unbreakable. Mother will be proud of my clothes, too. I wear a pretty lace-trimmed cotton dress, slip, panties, socks and shoes. My extra dress is checked cotton and velvet.

NEW, 3-FOOT HIGH TOYS ANNOUNCED BY J. W. K

J. W K. Industries, Douglassville, Pa., reveals that they have expanded their line this year and invite all buyers to see same during the Toy Fair in Room 1151 at the Hotel New Yorker

This year, it is announced, the Gaso Pump will be manufactured under the Texaco trademark, an added sales lure. To operate the pump, the youngster turns the handle and the gas level cylinder goes up and down to simulate the flow of gasoline and a bell rings, clocking off the gallons. Retail on the pump, now to be called the Texaco Gasoline Pump, has been set at $5 95

The new Electric Stop Light makes the young bike or wagon owner conscious of good driving practices. He can make the light signal red or green by means of a dial, or he can cause a bell to ring. The retail price of the Stop Light is $6.95 complete with batteries

The new Railroad Crossing Gate rounds out the line of new J. W K. playthings (all of which stand about three feet high) With this toy, the child turns the handle and the Crossing Gate goes up or down and a warning bell sounds. Retail price, $5.95

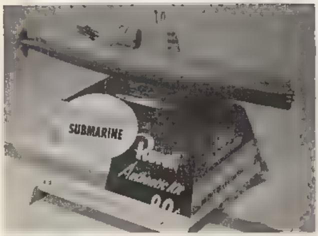
Revell's Model of the Nautilus Incorporates All Latest Details



New as the international publicity on the Long Island Sound, N Y, tests of the world's first atomic-powered submarine U.S.S Nautilus, Revell's authentic scale model has been revised to incorporate all the latest additions to the famous vessel and is now available with a free three color sales-boosting display stand.

"Revell believes in living up to its 'Authentic Kit' name," affirms President Lewis H Glaser, "so when the Navy revised the actual Nautilus, we revised our model to match every detail Now, with a guided missile, launching ramp, cylindrical hangar, rocket tubes and new official U S Navy colors, the Revell "Nautilus" is a superbly handsome model deserving more attention than ever before Our specially designed counter display base, printed on four sides in bright red, yellow and Navy blue on white, is even more attention-demanding than the headlines the prototype has been making. It brings the model directly to the point of purchase with the 89 cent price clearly visible."

The colorful display base, which measures 7" x 7½" at the bottom, is constructed of sturdy cardboard, providing a secure stand for the model and effectively setting off the new colors of the vessel. The red and gold plastic support for the "Nautilus" rests in the Navy blue top side of the cardboard stand. The actual model is now regulation Navy grey and green with a red guided missile

Sales-tested in strategic locations, the new dealer display base already has an outstanding profit-increase record. The base is offered free of charge, packed in introductory deals or free on request from Revell or its jobbers, as another Revell service to retailers, it is announced.

DING DONG SCHOOL CELEBRATES SECOND ANNIVERSARY ON TV

"Ding Dong School" the morning television show that offers intelligently planned fun for pre-schoolers, celebrated its second anniversary with three awards as the Best Children's Program, renewed contracts from its sponsors, and the addition of four new, bigtime sponsors.

Look, Motion Picture Daily and Fame Magazines each named "Ding Dong School" as the top juvenile show in the United States in December, days before Gerber, General Mills, Ovaltine and International Shoe signed up for a second year of identification with the country's leading television program for youngsters. By January, Colgate, Procter & Gamble, Mennen and Sweetheart Soap had expanded the sponsor roster to eight names.

Outstanding reason for the country's largest advertising agencies and their multi-million dollar client-manufacturers' eagerness to join the "Ding Dong School" family is defined by the manner in which sponsors' products are continually exposed to view and put in use on the program. To date, this is the only children's program to combine product exposure and product usage in each show. "Ding Dong School's" Miss Frances, achieves her selling effectiveness through showing and using the product; she does not pitch it.

As a result, it is stated, "Ding Dong School" Toys are becoming an increasingly vital part of every alert retailer's buying schedule. Stores report "Ding Dong School" merchandise sold as well in January and February as during the Christmas rush. And dealers in non-television communities who have been featuring "Ding Dong School" toys, say that the national publicity and TV awards to "Ding Dong School" have established a strong consumer acceptance in their areas as well.

Gottheimer, Inc., Introduces Doll's Electric Blanket

Sid Gottheimer of Sid Gottheimer, Inc., 130 Willis Avenue, Bronx 54, N. Y., has long felt that a very important part of the toy industry is the creation of toys designed especially for little girls. In fact, this has been Mr. Gottheimer's particular interest for nearly 50 years, and his son Bob's for the past 10 years.

Since 1947 when Sid and Bob founded their own business, they have concentrated on the creation and manufacture of new and distinctive items in the doll accessory line. Starting with what might have been considered quite an insignificant item in the broad field of dolls and toys—doll-carriage cover sets—they went to work. Mrs. Gottheimer supplied the designing talent and the discriminating taste in the choosing of fabrics. The result of their combined efforts was an entirely new concept in packaging and product presentation, and within a comparatively short time, the doll-carriage set began to take its place among best-selling toy items.

The next step of the Gottheimers in their efforts to cultivate the vast girl market was in the field of fitted wicker bassinets, cradles and baskets, etc. Their idea was to create real luxury in this type of merchandise and this was accomplished by the use of the finest materials and only genuine wicker. For the past several years, the Gottheimer line of fitted wicker bassinets, cradles and baskets has become a standard line in an ever-increasing number of the top toy shops throughout the country.

Bob Gottheimer

For 1955, the Gottheimers are introducing what they consider to be a real toy with "play value plus" in the form of a doll blanket with the added feature of electricity. Says Sid Gottheimer, "Our Doll Dream line this year will be highlighted by a doll's electric blanket that really works." Just like mother's and dad's electric blanket, it has a separate control box and a heat control panel that indicates the intensity of the heat right in the blanket.

Another Gottheimer "first" for 1955 is what they describe as an entirely new concept in the packaging of doll-carriage cover sets. The latter are now designed to insure a much larger display in a box hardly more than half the size of the regular box.

Sid and Bob Gottheimer attribute a major part of the success of the Doll Dream line to the constant efforts they have devoted to the creation of merchandise designed, styled and priced to move fast off the counter and so packaged as to come as close as possible in eliminating shrinkage and spoilage.

Complete displays of the 1955 Doll Dream line will await Toy Fair visitors in Room 756 at the Hotel McAlpin as well as at the Gottheimer permanent showroom in the Fifth Avenue Building, Room 203.

The One Design Class D Dyer Dink, largest Frostbite dinghy class a few years ago is, by popular request, now being offered by The Anchorage, Inc. of Warren, Rhode Island, of Dyeresin reinforced plastic construction. This rounds out the utility dinghy line in which this company has specialized for nearly a quarter of a century, starting with their 7-foot 9-inch Dyeresin Dhow Midget, 9-foot Dyeresin Dhow, 10-foot Dyeresin D and 16-foot Dyeresin Utility Glamour Girl. The latter may be had with either outboard or inboard power and because of its light weight, high speed and shoal draft, has been placed on many yachts during the past four years for use as a starboard launch or fishing tender. Also introduced is a 16-foot Dyeresin Utility outboard especially arranged for cruising. This model has many interesting innovations and should prove popular and practical.

Bill Dyer, president of The Anchorage, Inc., states that purchasers of their 33-foot all-plastic auxiliary Sojourner Class sloops are well pleased with their performance. Aleria was one of three out of twenty-seven boats that rode out Hurricane Carol successfully at Cuttyhunk. The prototype, Vega, fell off the ways due to high water but was undamaged and left for the Chesapeake two days after Carol only to be caught by Edna en route to Oxford. Those aboard gave glowing accounts of her ability and comfort.
